Corner House, Opened to Combat Drug-Abuse, Finds Alcoholic Problems Increasing

"Corner House is a place to help - for adolescents and young adults," explains Nancy White, who runs Corner House. "We're their kind of place, and they can trust us. We can tell, by the number that come in here."

"It's true: you don't have to be a heroin addict to go to Corner House, the place on the corner of Witherspoon and Henry that is geared, specifically, to kids who have a need.

Although Corner House was established as a drug-abuse treatment agency, it has a much broader mental health function, Mrs. White points out, because drug abuse is almost always a symptom of other problems.

Reaching out to kids who may have problems, two Corner House staff members have been talking to Middle School health classes, playing a game called "Prisoner's Dilemma" and holding a "Values Auction." Later this month, they'll go to Princeton High to start a Women's Awareness Group, where students can explore friendship, love, power, sexuality.

Since Corner House was opened, use and abuse in Princeton have changed somewhat. When Nancy White is asked whether drug abuse is tapering off, she replies,

"Yes, to some degree, but it is still significantly alarming. We're seeing younger children using drugs, and a marked increase in the use of alcohol by young adolescents. We've had two kids, 14 and 16, who required hospitalization for alcoholism."

"There isn't so much pressure on kids from their friends to try drugs, as there was a few years ago," she continues. "Fads come and go. Now, it's alcohol, and they have access to the family's liquor supply. Also, the legal age for drinking is lower—18."

"It's easy to see why young people take their trust to Corner House. Middle School kids learn the "Value Auction" game from two graduate students on the Corner House staff—Barbara Collins and Laya Geismar, dressed in cut-offs and faded denim, more like big sister than some social worker.

They write a list on the classroom blackboard: new car, homes for Vietnam orphans, savings that will double by the time you're 65, inner peace and well-being. You're given $100,000 to allocate any way you want among these things, and you write your choices secretly on paper.

Then the "values" are auctioned off and you bid. What you bought, openly—how does it compare with what you wrote down when you didn't have any competition? Why did you choose one thing, and not another? What are the differences between boys and girls, in making choices?

"Only females bid for the orphans, only boys bid for the new car," smiles Barbara.

There is a general discussion of values, in this class of about 15 to 25

COURT UPHOLDS HOUSING
 Yedlin Back in News. Township Committee acted properly, Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch ruled last week, when it approved the public housing project proposed for the Mt. Lucas-Ewing intersection. The project is popularly known as the Yedlin project for its developer, Benedict Yedlin.
 Mr. Yedlin was on the agenda Tuesday night for site-plan approval of the 100-unit project by the Princeton Regional Planning Board. However, board chairman Hans K. Sander warned as the meeting started that the long agenda could well stretch to midnight. He asked whether Mr. Yedlin and the Borough Housing Authority would rather wait a week and be heard at a special meeting, or take their chances with a board and audience—many opponents of the project were present—perhaps unduly affected by fatigue.
 Thomas Jamieson, attorney for the Borough Housing Authority, told the board that HUD, the Housing and Urban Development Agency, wants cost estimates and detailed plans in time for a June 1 meeting with the Borough Authority. Architect, engineer, soil expert and others had traveled to Borough Hall for Tuesday's meeting, he added, and all were eager to be heard that night.
 At press time, the first item on the agenda was still in process. The Yedlin project was sixth in line and no decision had yet been made about hearing the case Tuesday or waiting until next week.
 The suit seeking to stop the housing project was filed by William Brower, 628 Ewing. He charged that Township Committee had illegally given Mr. Yedlin extra time to obtain building permits but Judge Schoch said the extensions were valid and "in the public interest."
 The court found no basis for

Mr. Brower's contention that Township Committee had been "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" in approving zoning variances, run until July 1, 1976, and Judge Schoch also ruled that reappointed counsel William Miller, of the Miller and Pomeroy law firm, at a $6,000 annual fee, was not the township's attorney.
 The board questioned the board's authority to do so. Alvin Gershen, planning consultant, regarding office building proposed by MARD Associates (Drs. Armitage and Hirsch and Robert Albahary) for North Harrison. The board suggested the one-acre plot might be better devoted to housing. Mr. Gershen said the location was good, but the small site and noise factors made it undesirable for housing.

BUDGET CUT BACK
 In Township. Pruning back $455,000 from the $1,301,350 '75 capital budget, Township Committee unanimously passed the budget Monday night. Protests from two Committee members were voiced, but not translated into "no" votes.
 Elimination or postponement of various bike routes accounted for most of the reduction. These are bikeways not regarded as essential for safety, emphasized Abbot Low Moffat. The one on Mercer Street was retained as "extremely important."
 Committee moved its $600,000 open space item ahead to '76. Members hope two parcels—the Van Dyke Wight property and the Sheehan tract—can be bought for this sum. Committee member Elizabeth Hutter said she wanted to keep a smaller figure so that Van Dyke Wight's nine acres off Snowden could be grabbed before it was sold to somebody else. The seller is reported to be asking $176,000 for the plot. The house is said to be worth about $75,000.
 Mayor Jay Bleiman explained that Committee could still apply for state Green Acres money to buy the land.
 Mrs. Hutter and her colleague Margaret Broadwater both asked to postpone re-construction of so-called Section III of The Great Road, Mrs. Hutter urging solution of drainage problems and main-Shifting a proposed road has allowed a revised layout of the units for elderly tenants, with preservation of an improved buffer strip of existing woods along Ewing. Revised routing of sewers and utilities has "somewhat improved" the chances of saving existing trees, site plan members said.

 The committee was favorably impressed by the redesign of units for the elderly. One-story units in a close-knit "village" layout, which the site plan board found particularly good for elderly residents.
 Site plan recommended reducing parking for the elderly to 35 spaces, and for family units to 60, reserving an additional 25 for elsewhere on the site. This arrangement, the committee said, would protect trees and eliminate the need for large areas of blacktop.

Corner House

Middle School kids.

"We explain what Corner House is," Layah goes on. "A lot of kids think it's a place for heroin addicts, but we tell them that percentage is relatively small. We ask, 'What kinds of problems would someone your age want to talk about with somebody?' In every class, always, they say it's family problems, but they are rarely specific. Our discussion is very informal, only..." and she peals with laughter.

"Once in the Middle School, we were in this traditional science classroom, standing where the teacher does the experiments—you know, 'way above the kids themselves! Not a good thing, at all.'"

Games That Teach. "Prisoner's Dilemma," focusing on co-operation and competitiveness, is a complex team game.

"If one team zaps the other, it gets the initial advantage, if both zap the other, both lose. After a while, kids realize they must co-operate. These are the kinds of games we'd do in a group if kids came to Corner House. We want them to know there are things besides drugs that we look at."

"In a broad sense," Mrs. White muses, "we see our function as prevention, helping kids to grow and develop and preparing them to make decisions."

Federal drug abuse professionals have been shifting their emphasis, Mrs. White says.

"Scare propaganda turned kids away, they found, so they started this campaign, 'A Brand New Language'—'if you've got a problem, turn to the agency that can help you.' And it's working."

Girl in Rebellion. Corner House helps people in Princeton like the girl from a strict home where the parents had impossibly high moral and intellectual standards. The girl was in rebellion.

"Parents get upset when bright kids like this from 'good' homes rebel and won't go to school. Kids turn to drugs, to drinking, become sexually active—all the things they know will horrify their parents. The inter-relationships in the family are the real problem, not the child, and we often work with the whole family. And with other agencies, too."

Corner House staff see a lot of marijuana-alcohol use, "Mixed abuse," they call it. A 14-year old girl was on amphetamines, barbiturates, some LSD and marijuana. She was also a regular user of alcohol. She's been in group therapy at Corner House, where counsellors have been supporting her so that she could build what they call "a stronger self image," and not need to "act out" in order to get attention.

Therapy seems to be working, and the girl has brought several of her friends to Corner House.

Parental Problems. Heavy drinking parents are quite common in Princeton, and Corner House gets its share of the very young who are caught in this pattern. A parent under the influence of alcohol is often an abusing parent; then, too, when a child sees both parents drink, the child will often turn to drink. It's right there, and why not? So the problem is compounded in many ways.

How to get the abusing, drinking parents to become involved with the problems of a child who is also becoming a heavy drinker? It's a challenge, but Corner House has actually had some success in drawing these parents into counselling.

Parade Planned May 23

American Legion Posts 76 and 218 have announced the committee for the 1975 Memorial Day program which will be held May 23 at 7 p.m.

Co-chairmen are D. Don Richards of Post 76 and John Brown of Post 218. Donald W. Griffin is honorary parade marshal, Thomas Ward master of ceremonies and the Rev. Dr. William Tucker, minister. Bernard Glover, Gene Pierre and John Donaldson are the parade assembly, assisted by Post 218.

Others: Maron Charydzak, Steve Margerum, Elmer McHugh, monument liaison; Jack Adams, color guard; M.T. Benedetti, transportation; Fred Klink, finance; Rosemary Anderson of the Post 76 auxiliary unit, food; Stanley Pomykala, refreshments; David McCloskey, decorations; Henry J. Frank, memorial wreaths.

"We have great need for a supervised environment for young adults," says Mrs. White. "We'd like to enlist families willing to take troubled adolescents away from heavy-drinking homes, or homes where things would cool off if people could only get away from each other while they're having counselling."

Besides staff members mentioned above, Corner House has another graduate student, Roger Lehman; counsellors Mark Kasrel, Brian Childs, Becky Pillsbury and Pasquale (Pat) Sargiotto; social worker Jim Colman, psychologist Janet Wright and physician Shirley Van Ferney. Mrs. White is a social worker.

BOGUS SHOPPER HALTED
In Landau's. A 15-year old Lawrenceville girl was charged last week with buying two sweaters at Landau's on Nassau Street by pretending to be the daughter of a person who had an account there.

The youthful offender, arrested on Nassau Street Friday by Ptl. Victor Fasanella, was turned over to the Borough juvenile officer for processing. Police said that the girl had done the same thing in Landau's last fall.

WOOD FIRE SET

At Textile Research Site. Three juveniles, 12 and 13, used smoke bombs last week to set a fire at the site of Textile Research, 601 Prospect Avenue Extension.

Police said that pine needles and woods covering an area approximately 35 square feet were set ablaze before being brought under control by Ptl. James Vandermark. The three juveniles were turned over to Township juvenile officer Anthony Pinelli for further action.

McPherson Meets With Press, Reaffirms Decision to Remain

A spur-of-the-moment press conference called on Tuesday, by Superintendent Philip E. McPherson, somehow leaked to the school board, and the Superintendent, who had expected to talk about his case alone with the press, found himself talking to board president Winthrop Pike and board member Judith Getis as well.

As the superintendent explained the situation, Mr. Pike had conferred with the board's attorney, Thomas Cook, who said he saw no reason why Mr. Pike and Mrs. Getis shouldn't sit in on the conference, too. So far as reporters could tell, the superintendent didn't hold back just because two board members were observers.

"I have no intention of

2 POLICEMEN ASSAULTED

In Separate Incidents. Two Township patrolmen were assaulted last week in separate incidents.

Ptl. Anthony Gaylord was treated at Princeton Medical Center for a chipped bone in his hand following an incident Saturday noon on Washington Road. Allan P. Ostrander, 28, of Jamesburg, with whom he grappled, was treated for an injury to his nose at the Medical Center.

Ostrander has been charged by Ptl. Gaylord with using profane and indecent language, assault, resisting arrest and possession of under 25 grams of marijuana. He has been released on $250 bail on the resisting arrest charge and on his own recognizance for the other three.

According to police, Ostrander was in a car when he allegedly directed indecent language at a woman walking her child on Washington Road. Ptl. Gaylord, directing traffic nearby, overheard. He noted the license number and broadcast an alarm.

The car was stopped by Borough police and brought back to Washington Road. When Gaylord attempted to place Ostrander under arrest, he allegedly resisted and assaulted the officer.

resigning in the near future," he repeated. Commenting on the board's publicly declared intention to seek "several lines of action" to get him out, the superintendent said he was not aware what the board might be considering. "Negative actions would be unfortunate," he said, and added, "I don't underestimate the board, and I hope I am not underestimated in my ability to deal with the situation."

He wants to meet with the board to discuss their relationship, Dr. McPherson said, and would welcome "re-activating board-administration seminars."

Townpeople ask him, the superintendent continued what the board knows. "There must be something else, people tell me, that the board knows about you, and they mention things like embezzlement or morals charges."

"Nothing, to my knowledge, if released publicly, I would consider injurious to me as a professional," Dr. McPherson declared. "There is nothing I'd consider a basis for removal from office. I would be glad to have every last bit said or written about or with me, in private, made public. It is injurious to me to allow rumors to float."

Issues, apart from the Superintendent personnel issue, should be discussed by the board, he said, and told the press he regards half a dozen as vital.

Kind of education: should the emphasis be on social growth or academics?

He said he didn't think Princeton had de-emphasized the academic.

Policy and administration: the board makes one, he carries out the other, but where is the line to be drawn?

Information: the board should have no more information than it needs to make policy decisions. But more meetings and internal memos should be made public, to forestall rumors.

Superintendents often must make unpopular decisions: this is the reason for tenure. "Beyond a certain point, compromise is unethical."

Action: a superintendent acts on professional bases, but board members must make decisions on their own grounds, as political people.

The superintendent said it was essential to work for improvement in problems confronting the system, some of which are "serious and unresolved." He said that for six months, "two-thirds of the administrative jobs were at stake. Elementary principals still don't know where they'll be next year. This is the most extremely difficult situation in my memory."

Asked how a superintendent determined not to resign, can work with a board 9-0 against him, Dr. McPherson said "I will have to act in a way that makes my desire to work with the board come alive."

Mr. Pike, asked about the relationship, said "Where people are talking, there is

Public Discussion of Problems Regretted

Judith Getis, school board member who attended Superintendent Philip E. McPherson's Tuesday press conference, expressed her views on the conference later that day. She emphasized that she was speaking solely for herself, and not for the board.

"The fact that board members upon hearing of the impending press conference with Superintendent McPherson felt it was necessary to attend is indicative of the difficulties facing the board," she said.

"The Superintendent had not informed the board that he was going to hold the conference, and lacking any indication of its substance, board members who heard of it from townspeople felt it was necessary to choose this path to find out what was on the superintendent's mind. At the conference, the Superintendent talked repeatedly of his willingness to cooperate with the board, but he also charged the board, at least indirectly, of acting in ways he doesn't find useful."

"I question whether this kind of communication, through the public media, is the best way to seek a solution to our problems. When a couple is having marital problems, they resolve them through private discussion or with the aid of a marriage counsellor. They realize the problems will not be solved by unilateral appeals to the public. I hope that in the future, this kind of situation can be avoided, and a real willingness to work harmoniously, displayed."

still hope," but he declined to amplify.

Mr. Pike emphasized that last week's action, in which the board eliminated the administrative jobs now held by Frank Soda and Norman Van Arsdalen at the High School, in no way indicated dissatisfaction with the two men.

Confirming the board's statement that the 1973 and 1974 boards had asked him to resign, Dr. McPherson said he hadn't publicized the request earlier because he regarded 1973-74 as "the best year in the schools' history."

"Board-superintendent problems were muted," he explained, "it would have been distractive and baffling to the public to reveal that I'd been asked to seek other positions."

ship Ptl. Robert Nielsen ran into trouble last week when he answered a call that there was a disturbance at 38 Pardee Circle.

Police said that Jeffrey A. Smith, 18, turned on Ptl. Nielsen and began to assault him when the officer tried to place him under arrest. Smith and his father, Roland W. Smith, had reportedly been involved in a fight and Mr. Smith was treated at the Medical Center for cuts and abrasions which he received when he reportedly landed on a broken beer bottle. Ptl. Nielsen was allegedly struck in the hand, arm and left shoulder by young Smith when he tried to intervene.

The younger Smith is being held in Mercer County Jail in lieu of $2500 bail.

TWO ARE CHARGED

In Apartment Robbery. Borough police have charged two Princeton residents in connection with the report last week of two men who forced their way into a man's apartment on Witherspoon Street early in the morning and left with $113 after they threatened him with injury if he failed to give them money. Charged with robbery by Detective Ronald Holliday are Melvin Miller, 18, 71 Clay Street, and George Kornegay, 22, 14 Quarry Street. Both are free on $500 bail, pending an appearance in court May 21.

Chief Michael Carnevale commented that the investigation was "an unusual one" and is being continued. Kornegay was arrested on John Street and Clay by Holliday and Det. Timothy Huizing. Miller had been arrested by Sheriff's officers on another charge and was turned over to Borough police, who had a detainer for his arrest.

Drunk and Disorderly. Lloyd Parsells, 20, 36 Princeton Avenue, was arrested Saturday evening by Ptl. Victor Fasanella who charged him with being drunk and disorderly inside the A & S Luncheonette on Nassau Street.

Police said that Parsells allegedly refused to pay his bill and created a disturbance when he interfered with customers and used loud and profane language.

Charged in TV Theft. Also arrested last week and charged with the larceny of a $350 color television set from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Boone, 31 Greenhouse Drive, is John Miller, 21, of Trenton.

Police said that Miller and a companion had stopped at the Boone's house to use their bathroom. When they left, the Boones discovered the set was missing.

Miller was arrested in the Borough by Det. Huizing and taken to Township headquarters. He was later remanded to the County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail.

CASH BOXES EMPTIED

At American Express. Two metal cash boxes containing a combined $20 and change were emptied last week at the American Express office, 10 Nassau Street.

Police said that entry was made between Thursday and Friday morning by forcing the front door.

High Time, Too!

Plant a seed
And get a bean.
Just watch that garden
Turn bright green!

A thermometer that is grudgingly moving upward day by day is finally turning the world green—weeks behind the normal schedule for early May. Midweek weather was expected to help—sunny and mild, the Man said.

Clouds will return by Friday and precipitation possibly with them. That's the Saturday picture, too, with fair skies forecast for Morn on Sunday.

taining the road's present width.

Mrs. Broadwater said she'd like to try bikeways marked off by painted lines in the road.

"People ride in the roadway regardless of bike paths or curb-cuts, she said. "If The Great Road is too dangerous for this, let's see how it would work on Terhune-Van Dyke.

"Nobody, in two public hearings, has been interested in this capital budget as a financial plan," grumbled Committee member William Sutphin, "people are only interested in their pet projects."

Mr. Sutphin introduced an ordinance exempting political campaigners from the need to have a permit. Public hearing May 19. Mr. Sutphin then voted "no" on Committee's annual decision to contribute $250 to the American Legion for the Memorial Day parade. He read off a list of organizations, like the Girl Scouts and the Future Farmers of America, who are all chartered by Congress, as is the American Legion.

"Must we give to all of these, too?" he demanded.

Mr. Sutphin questions the use of tax money for these parades. He suggested that veterans might contribute part of their $50 real estate tax exemption toward the parade; and he offered to do so himself.

Committee voted in favor of the American Legion, 4-1.

After a long discussion on the propriety of using the word "loop," Committee voted to allow the University to send a bus this Sunday along the town's Loop Bus route.

A KACHINA DOLL AND A NAVAJO BLANKET: These and other traditional handicrafts will be sold this weekend at a Folk Art Bazaar sponsored by the organization of Native American Students for the benefit of American Indian students at Princeton University. Patrick Anderson (left) and Roman Bitsui flank Marion Kelleher, who brought together the handicrafts.

FOLK ART BAZAAR SET

To Benefit Indian Students. American Indian students attending Princeton University will benefit from a three-day international folk art bazaar Friday, (5-11) and Saturday and Sunday, (10 to 5), at the Visual Arts Building, 185 Nassau Street.

Sponsored by the Organization of Native American Students, the bazaar features an extensive collection of traditional handicrafts, antique and new, from five continents. Jewelry, baskets, rugs, puppets, tribal sculpture, masks, textiles, folk paintings, ceramics and dozens of other decorative and wearable items come from Europe, Africa, Asia and the Americas. Prices start at $1 and go up to about $1,000. The crafts were gathered by Marion Kelleher of Parkside Drive and Pearl Seligman of Roosevelt.

Concert Car-pool

Parked at McCarter lately? If so, you probably arrived for the concert about an hour ahead of time.

Subscribers who would like to join a car-pool for the Princeton University concerts of the coming 1975-76 season, are invited to call 924-0453 between 10 and 4 on week-days, for additional information.

The invitation is open to people who may not want to travel to concerts alone, who don't like to go out at night alone, who want to save gas and...who don't like a parking hassle.

There are 12 American Indian students now at Princeton University. Recruitment was started about six years ago by Alfonso Ortiz, himself an American Indian, who was then a member of Princeton's anthropology department. Some students are located by Indian organizations; others apply independently.

Princeton and Dartmouth are at present the only two private universities actively recruiting American Indians, but Harvard has recently initiated such a program. Most American Indians go to western schools. About half come from reservations.

This year Princeton will graduate its first American Indian students; Patrick Anderson of Seattle, a member of the Tlingit-Aleut tribe, will receive an A.B. in public and international affairs, and Lorene Reano, a Pueblo Indian of Santo Domingo, N.M., will receive an A.B. in English. Other tribes represented on campus are the Navajo, Abenaki, Comanche, Cheyenne, Sioux and Hopi.

ACLU TO BENEFIT

From Dinner Saturday. The Mercer-Hunterdon Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union is holding a Mayfest on Saturday at the Unitarian Church as its annual fund raiser. A cash bar will be open for drinks at 7, and at 8 dinner will be served with wine and music for $25 a couple. Single persons are welcome at a contribution of $10.

The food will be home-cooked by well-known Princeton cooks. For reservations call the ACLU office, 599-4440, any weekday between 9:30 and 2:30.

The Mercer-Hunterdon Chapter runs one of the few staffed officers of the New Jersey Civil Liberties Union, and its caseload continues to increase. A recent case concerns a corrections officer at Trenton State Prison who wrote a personal letter to his State Senator concerning undue brutality, racism and other abuses contributing to tension at the prison.

employed in the maintenance department of the school system, and "conflict of interest" was charged. ACLU furnished her with a lawyer who successfully argues on her behalf before the State Board of Education and who saw this as a case involving the right of a woman to be considered on her own merits as a separate entity rather than first and foremost as a spouse.

MEET CANDIDATES

For County Job. Two candidates from each party are jockeying for Republican and Democratic nominations for the job of Mercer County Executive and the four aspirants will all speak at a Candidates Night sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

The "night" will be next Monday, 8 p.m., Community Park School. (All registered voters may vote in either Republican or Democratic primary, regardless of the way they voted in the last primary, or how they are registered.)

Arthur Holland and Arthur Spek are the Democratic contenders, Harry Sayen and Paul Petito want the Republican designation. The November winner will oversee the operation of Mercer County government during a four-year term. Seven elected Freeholders will organize the government, adopt the budget and legislate county policies.

POTTERY SEMINAR SET

In Art Museum. The Historical Society of Princeton will host a day's seminar on "Looking at Pottery and Porcelain" on Saturday, May 10, John P. Cushion, an authority on world ceramics, will be the speaker.

Before his recent retirement from the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, Mr.

COLLECTORS TAKE NOTE: Mrs. Kenneth Chorley, well-known collector of pottery, examines a cream ware pitcher at Bainbridge House, headquarters of the Historical Society of Princeton. "Looking at Pottery and Porcelain", a seminar sponsored by the Society, will be held this Saturday in the University Art Museum.

Cushion was Senior Research Officer in the Department of Ceramics. He is the author of numerous articles and ten books, including "Animals in Pottery and Porcelain."

Coffee and registration will take place at 10 a.m. at the Art Museum of Princeton University. Mr. Cushion will then lecture on "World Ceramics." Following luncheon at Prospect, Mr. Cushion will give an illustrated lecture on "Fakes and Fallacies in Pottery and Porcelain." He will examine and identify ceramic objects brought by those attending the seminar.

The cost of the day's seminar is $20. Checks should be made out to the Historical Society of Princeton and sent to its headquarters at 158 Nassau Street. For further information and reservations, call the society at 921-6748.

BRAKES LOCK

Car Leaves 206. Richard Westervelt, 65, 364 Stockton Road, was treated at Princeton Medical Center Saturday morning when his car veered off Route 206 South and struck an embankment near the Stony Brook Bridge.

Mr. Westervelt's car left 60 feet of skidmarks. He told police that he had just had his brakes repaired, and they had locked. His car turned over on its side as it left the roadway and bounced back upright, damaging the roof and sides. Ptl. David Funk investigated.

Cyclist Cut. Keith N. Page, 17, of Old Road, was treated at the Medical Center for a laceration of the head which he received last week when his bicycle collided with a car backing into a driveway.

There were no charges against the driver, Dennis D. Clark, 19, 50 Dublin Road, Pennington. The mishap took place on Leigh Avenue near John Street.

Falls Off Bike. Allison Brandt, 8, was taken by ambulance to the Medical Center a few minutes after 6 Monday evening after she fell off her bicycle near her home at 61 Bertrand Drive. She was treated for head injuries.

Ptl. Mario Musso and Ptl. John Clausen responded to a call that a child had fallen and was unconscious.

rooming house. Ms. Titus was admitted to Princeton Medical Center for treatment but police said her condition was not serious. The bullet entered her chest and lodged in her shoulder.

Stewart is presently free on ten percent of $1,000 bail, pending his appearance in court scheduled for June 4. Police have confiscated the weapon, a .22 caliber rifle cut down to a foot in length, which they said they located in a room in the boarding house. Stewart was arrested inside the Medical Center.

Police add that although an argument preceded the shooting, it is alleged to have been accidental. The incident is still under investigation by Detectives Charles Harris and Ronald Holliday.

Police first received a call from an unidentified person from a call box at Witherspoon

Parking Ban for Sunday's Crew Races

Because more than 8,000 visitors are expected to pour into Princeton Sunday to witness the ECAC rowing sprints on Lake Carnegie (see Page 16B), Township police will ban parking from 8 to 6 on a number of streets near the lake.

Chief Frederick Porter said that the emergency parking ban was necessary because of the expected huge volume of motor vehicle traffic and the lack of adequate parking facilities.

Police request that all residents of the streets affected park their cars in their driveways before 8 a.m. The sides and portions of the streets involved will be posted.

They include Route 27, Riverside Drive East, Roper Road, Littlebrook Road, Poe Road, Prospect Avenue, Carnegie Drive, Evergreen Circle, Random Road, White Pine Lane, Shady Brook Lane, Marion Road, Gulick Road, River Road and Herrontown Road.

and McLean Streets at 8:52 p.m. and a second call later from a hospital official.

THIRTEEN ARE FINED
For Speeding. Thirteen Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough court for speeding.

Nine paid $15 fines: Vincent Baldino, 226 Linden Lane; Jeffrey T. Evans, 11 Manor Ridge Drive, Princeton Junction; Laurence Berger, 72 Clover Lane; Judah L. Jacobowitz, 6 Cleveland Lane; Samira Sisson, 275 Mt. Lucas Road; Carole M.V. Rauthamer, 7 Broadripple Drive; Laura J. Sherlotti, Kendall Park; Priscilla S. Weck, 41 Overbrook Drive; and Paul D. Porter, Lawrenceville School.

Barbara S. Cohen, 72 Herrontown Road, paid $20; Vincent H. Boone, 116 Leigh Avenue, paid $50; Gary J. Luck, 11 Lakeview Avenue, Kingston, paid $40, and Ruth C. Wilson, 820 Kingston Road, paid $16.

Jeffrey Bullock, 102½ Leigh Avenue, paid three fines: $30 for a one-way street violation and $15 each on all-night and overtime parking infractions.

Others: Robin B. Stewart, Featherbed Lane, $25, failure to give proper signal; Ellen S. Clarke, 28 Mason Drive, $25, careless driving; Johnny L. Parks, 302 John Street, $15, red light.

Lawrence Cruser, 183 Linden Lane, pleaded not guilty to a red light violation, was found guilty and fined $25. However, Judge Carchman suspended the fine, pending an appeal by Mr. Cruser.

Township Court. Three area residents were fined last week in Township Court for careless driving. They are Edward J. Zakas, 33 Titus Avenue, Lawrenceville, $35; Thomas E. Cherrington of Plainsboro, $30; and Paul E. Goldman, 3 Puritan Court, $25.

William E. Barrish, 132 Balcourt Drive, was fined $50 for using fictitious license plates and $35 for operating an unregistered vehicle. Passing a stopped school bus cost Janet C. Jones, Province Line Road, $25.

George C. Tucket, 250 John Street, paid $50 as an unlicensed driver, while Alexander Wert, 6 Hodge Road, was fined $30 for improper passing.

Bus Service to Races

Shuttle Bus Service will be provided to the crew races on Lake Carnegie on Sunday.

Because of limited parking, bus service will be provided, from stops along Faculty Road for the regular Loop Bus fee. Use University Lots near Jadwin Gym or near Dinky crossing, Lots 21 and 23, respectively. Buses will run approximately every 30 minutes, starting around 10 until 6:30.

Board, Mayor Robert Cawley announced Tuesday. Although there is no legal requirement that she resign, the mayor said, she had decided to do so in terms of conflict-of-interest.

Ms. Schneier has been on the Zoning Board since January when she was named to replace Norman Williams. It was charged that he had a conflict of interest because he also held a seat on the Planning Board.

Borough residents who would like to apply for Ms. Schneier's Zoning Board seat are invited to talk with Mayor Cawley. Vacancies also exist on the Planning Board (to replace Leon Gipson), the Environmental Commission and the Traffic Safety Committee.

MAY MARKET PLANNED
By Garden Club. The 16th annual May Market held by the Stony Brook Garden Club will take place at the Grover Cleveland House, home of Mrs. J. Taylor Woodward, 15 Hodge Road, on Tuesday from 9 to 4. In case of "pouring rain," the plant sale will be held the following day.

Mrs. John Lee, this year's chairman, has announced that the sale will include all kinds of vegetables; a wide range of perennials and annuals; many varieties of ivies; modern and old-fashioned herbs; unusual wild flowers; hanging baskets will all kinds of flower and dozens of geraniums.

Patrons will also have an opportunity to order dutch spring flowering bulbs for fall delivery from the Sweet Briar Alumnae, and the Vassar Club of Central New Jersey will offer its Gardener's Diary for sale.

Proceeds from the May Market are used to benefit various civic projects. These include the maintenance of rose and herb gardens at historic Rockingham, Washington's headquarters in 1783, and planting of areas of Marquand Park and the John Street playground. Donations are also made to various conservation groups.

Assistant Mrs. Lee in planning the May Market are Mrs. Raymond Carter, Mrs. Maturin Delafield, Mrs. Michael Dawes, Mrs. F.M. Austin, Mrs. Hugh Bever, Mrs. Donald Reed, Mrs. James Jennings and other members of the club.

MODEL PLANES TO FLY
Saturday in Air Show. The Mercer County Park Commission will sponsor a Model Air Show by the West Windsor Flying Club at Central Park on Saturday from 1 to 4 to which the public is invited at no charge. The air show, a

Taxes Drop Slightly

Pennies have been lopped off estimated Borough and Township tax rates by Mercer County's Board of Taxation certifying figures.

In the Township, the 1975 rate is now formally pegged at $3.49 per $100 of assessed valuation. The estimated figure was $3.53. The school levy is 3 cents lower because of the trimmed school budget, and the county's own levy is 1 cent lower. Last year's Township rate was $3.30.

Administrator Joseph R. Nini said Monday night that the school tax is based on reductions made in the school budget by Borough Council and Township Committee. If there is a change in this budget, it will be reflected in next year's taxes, Mr. Nini said.

In the Borough, the firm rate is $4.63, down 3 cents from the estimated $4.66. School levy is 2 cents lower, and the county's, 1 cent. Last year's Borough rate was $4.31.

first of its kind in Mercer County, will feature flying of radio controlled and control line planes. In addition, the nationally famous Academy of Model Aeronautics will have members of its show team put on a flying demonstration.

Radio controlled miniature aircraft have all the operational controls of full size aircraft, including retractable landing gear, and are capable of performing more complex aerobatic precision maneuvers. The program will feature a variety of flying demonstrations including stunt pattern flying, formation flying and a dog fight between Snoopy (the flying doghouse) and the Red Baron.

The use of park land for model flying represents a broadened recreational land use of the park for the many Mercer County residents who enjoy watching or participating in the activity of model aircraft flying. Building and flying model aircraft is a rapidly growing year-round activity among young and old in Mercer County.

GROWTH IS TOPIC
Of Community Services Meeting. "We talk about regional growth in terms of highways and shopping centers, but what about the people?" asks Ingrid Reed, moderator for "Looking at Human Services in Light of Regional Growth and Change," the Council of Community Services' annual meeting to be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the theatre of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School.

Professional and volunteer leaders in human service agencies throughout the area will respond to "Region At A Crossroad," the slide show of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council.

Paul Kurland, executive director of Family Service Agency of Princeton, will be one of the panelists emphasizing the needs of the people in this growing region. Family Service has a branch office in Hightstown and serves parts of the three counties under discussion. Other panelists include Dorothy Schoch, an administrative associate in Personnel Services at Princeton University and a former trustee of The Medical Center at Princeton; and Richard L. Gilbert, Jr., of the American Cyanamid Co. and chairman of the budget committee for the Princeton Area United Community Fund.

Mrs. Reed, the moderator, is vice chairman of the Mercer County Planning Board and a board member of the Council of Community Services. The public is invited to participate in the Council's annual meeting.

OPEN HOUSE SET
Saturday for AAMH. The Association for Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped, Princeton Chapter, is sponsoring an Open House at the home of chapter president Winton Manning, 117 Leabrook Lane, on Saturday from 10 to noon. Mentally handicapped people, their families, friends, and associates are all invited to meet Peter Trayers, the chapter's full-time support coordinator; Mr. Manning, and other members of the organization.
Manning has urged anyone associated with the organization, or who would like to be, to come learn more about it and enjoy refreshments. Those who plan to attend should call 924-9095 or 924-7695.

PANCAKES TO FLIP
At Outing Club Breakfast. The YM-YWCA High School Outing Club will sponsor a pancake breakfast on Saturday from 8:30 to 11 at the Y. Club members will prepare and serve the breakfast, which will include pancakes and syrup, sausages, and coffee or orange drink.
Price of admission is $1.50 per adult; $1 for children, 12 and under. All proceeds will benefit the Outing Club, which is attempting to raise funds for a wilderness trip this summer.

FASHIONS ON VIEW
Monday Evening. A preview of summer fashions has been planned by the Fellowship-Scholarship Committee of the American Association of University Women, Princeton Branch, for Monday at 6.

Garbage Confusion?
If you live in one of the Township municipal garbage collection districts, your trash will be picked up TWICE a week from now on, instead of the three times a week you're accustomed to.
All municipal districts—one through five—will have pickup of garbage on Mondays and Thursdays. Trash will be picked up on the first and third Thursdays of the month for Districts One, Four and Five and on the second and fourth Thursdays in Districts Two and Three.
The change will result in overall savings, because taxpayers won't have to pay so much in garbage tax.
Home-owners who have private garbage and trash collectors are not affected.

Beeline fashions will be introduced during a planned program at the Mall Cafeteria near the southbound railroad station in Princeton Junction.
There is no admission charge and children are invited. A cafeteria supper or dessert are available. For further information call Joan Dismukes (201-369-3813) or Lucy Menefee (924-7051).

FLOWER SALE SET
For Mother's Day Weekend. The Rocky Hill Community Group's annual Mother's Day Flower Sale opens Thursday, noon to 5, and continues through Sunday at the Community House on Washington Street Friday and Saturday hours are from 10 to 5, Sunday, from 10 to 2. Annuals, perennials, geraniums, shrubs, vegetables and herbs will be in plentiful supply, and hanging baskets of fuschia and geraniums will again be a major attraction. Featured also this year will be a wide selection of hardy, native-grown azaleas and rhododendrons plus an attractive selection of Joanna Fiori's pottery.

Co-chairmen are Ann Faranetta, Pam Wagner and Linda Eveleigh. Proceeds from the sale will be used to support the work of the Community Group which serves the area by providing cultural, recreational, historical and educational programs.

SPOOK HOUSE SET
For PDS Fair. A new, spine-tingler of a spook house, designed by Princeton architect Jeremiah Ford, will be featured at the Princeton Day School Fair, Saturday from 10-4.
The six-sided, maze-type building is designed as a sensory experience with shivering sound electronically adapted to each slimy touch, with construction secure enough to withstand the screams and bumps emitted by anybody brave enough to enter.
For the less adventuresome, a mini-auction is scheduled to take place at 12:30. Naomi Savage of the Johnson Memorial Library in Houston has donated a photographic notebook with two of her own photographs as covers, a gift for the aspiring author or an album for valued pictures. Tom DeVito, baseball coach, will also auction a weekend in Vermont chalet, a case of vintage wine, a signed original by Nancy O'Connor, a family

A Mother Says "Thanks."

To the Editor of Town Topics:
On Saturday morning at 7 a.m. when everyone in my house was still asleep, my five-year old daughter, still in her p.j.'s, decided to go on an independent shopping spree. She climbed on to a chair, unlocked the door and set out into the big world. You can imagine the nightmare that her disappearance meant to me.

I would very much like to publicly thank the many people who came to my aid during the long hours of uncertainty and worry. Friends, neighbors, who helped in the search, the people at WHWH, and above all the Township police officers, who responded so promptly and who finally discovered my daughter in the Princeton Shopping Center, to all of you wonderful people: my heartfelt thanks for all your help and comfort. Also, my sincere thanks to the many people - unknown to me personally - who heard the radio announcements and who took the trouble of calling me to express their sympathy and delight at my daughter's safe return.

My independent little girl still doesn't understand what all the fuss was all about. But to all you marvelous people who did, again: thank you very, very much!

ANN LAURIE

88 Harris Road

Shopping Center Thanked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Shopping Center's renewal of its generous loan of land for the community vegetable gardens is just one more piece of evidence of the management's enlightened view of the Center's role in the community.

The art shows, the enhanced appearance of the buildings and plantings, cooperation with Township officials on traffic controls in the parking lot, encouragement of the Loop Bus system, and contributions toward the forthcoming automated postal unit—all of these cannot fail to earn the Center the good will of the townspeople.

It should be understood that the fees charged for the vegetable plots are not charged by the Shopping Center. Since it was agreed that the plots should be self-sustaining, they were set by the Joint Recreation Department to cover the cost of clearing ground, fencing, and water connections, as the need becomes apparent at the various gardening sites.

Without the Shopping Center's cooperation in making available, free of charge and unencumbered, the initial small parcel of land for the pilot plots begun last year, and without the Friends of the Princeton Environment's generous funding of the first year's expenses, the project might never have "flown." We are immensely grateful to both.

Leadership Is Lacking.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Many Princeton citizens will recall the high excitement and optimism that was felt just nine years ago when the Princeton Regional School District was created. Former School Board members especially will remember the vision of Princeton as a "lighthouse system," a model for public education throughout the land.

But today the news of the school system - while still filled with the very substantial achievements of individual students, outstanding teachers, and some highly successful programs, is too often marred by reports of dissension, frustration and conflict.

What went wrong? Was it lack of leadership, poor communication, lack of community support, or some combination of these and other factors? Who can say?

What is clear is that lack of confidence in its professional leadership is hurting the school system.

Who suffers most are the students and teachers. They deserve a better deal than they are getting.

If, as seems likely, the situation cannot be repaired, then it is time for those who can end the conflict to move to do so. Only then can public education in Princeton once again progress towards that position of excellence and leadership for which so many people have striven for over the years. This community should expect and accept no less than that.

HARVEY ROTHBERG, M.D.
35 Shady Brook Lane

High-Handed Attitude.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is a copy of the letter I have sent to each member of the Regional School Board:

I am appalled and dismayed at the high-handed attitude of the Board in publicly asking for the resignation of Superintendent McPherson.

I, as a citizen, feel this action is in opposition to the best interests of the school children in Princeton, and does not represent the wishes and needs of the community.

We have been fortunate in Princeton to have a man of Philip McPherson's caliber and character involved in the education of our children. To ask for his resignation because of the Board's inability to work with him is a very short-sighted point of view.

Dr. McPherson's goals and actions are directed by what is best for the children and the schools in the long run.

I ask you as a member of the Board to work with and trust this man I know to be working for all of our children.

A Town That Sparkled.

To the Editor:

When a day lives, sings, trots, jigs, tickles and smells good, it is because a lot of people have been thinking, working, planning, sharing and earing.

Last Saturday on Nassau St. and at Morven, the sun sparkled and so did all of Princeton. Thank you.

Support for McPherson.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is an open letter to Board of Education:

I am writing to let you know that I'm tremendously upset by your recent action asking Dr. McPherson to resign.

I have been a resident of Princeton for some 22 years. My daughter went thru the Princeton school system from KG thru high school.

In the last few weeks I have made considerable effort to talk to board members as well as to people I know who are working in the school system. I also attended a board meeting.

The one bit of information that comes out loud and clear is that the board and Dr. McPherson don't get along and I didn't need to attend more than one board meeting to become aware of this fact.

I don't want to make a judgment on whether Dr. McPherson or the board is more responsible for creating this situation. As in any interpersonal relationship both sides usually contribute. However, I was struck by the fact that among all the people I spoke with (both pro and anti-McPherson) everyone seemed to be agreed about Dr.

McPherson's professional competence, thoughtfulness, and dedication as an educator. All the people I spoke to on the board reassured me that the action was not based on disagreement with Dr. McPherson's philosophy and/or decisions.

It strikes me that one does not ask a superintendent to resign because "he's hard to get along with" -- that is, assuming one is a mature human being. Incidentally, I too have been impressed with Dr. McPherson's professional competence, thoughtfulness, and dedication, though I by no means have always agreed with his decisions. I might add that I am quite aware that Princeton schools have some very serious problems. I have found that Dr. McPherson has been unusually sensitive to these problems. Furthermore I think Princeton schools are by no means unique in going thru a very difficult period.

I do not minimize the difficulty of arriving at a working relationship between a board and a superintendent. To pick just one: you have someone (the superintendent) who has spent a whole lifetime on education and you have a board with varying backgrounds, but at best only spending part time on these matters. There is no way that the superintendent nor the board members (no matter how conscientious) can close this "information gap." The best one can hope for is that both sides are very aware of this problem and make every effort to make the best of a very difficult situation.

I feel very strongly that what the Princeton school system (or any school system) needs above all are people who are professionally competent, dedicated, and thoughtful. Obviously, it is also important that the board and the superintendent get along - but I would hope that this is something both parties could work out!

DEMONSTRATION SET

At Camelot Kitchens. An open-house demonstration of smooth-top range cooking will be held Friday from 7-8:30 p.m. at Camelot Kitchens, 236 Nassau Street.

The demonstration will feature the Corning Three-Plus-One Smooth-top range which offers the homemaker top-of-the-range heat control that is as precise as her oven. The "plus-one" is a special high heat element for canner, pressure cooker or stock pot.

Camelot Kitchens and Corning promise that every homemaker will cook better and work less with the Three-Plus-One and will serve snacks to prove it.

OBITUARIES

Kenneth B. Keating, 74, U. S. Ambassador to Israel, died May 5 at Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital, N. Y. He was the husband of the former Mary Pitcairn Davis of 161 Hodge Road.

Born in Lima, N. Y., he received an undergraduate degree from the University of Rochester and a law degree from Harvard. He practiced law in Rochester until World War II when he joined the Army as a major and rose to the rank of brigadier general. He served in the European and Pacific theaters, winning three battle stars and the Legion of Merit with an oak leaf cluster.

After the war, Mr. Keating returned to law practice and was elected to the House of Representatives, where he served for 12 years. In 1958 he was elected to the Senate but lost his seat six years later to Robert F. Kennedy. In 1965 he was elected associate judge of the N. Y. State Court of Appeals and in 1969 was named Ambassador to India.

A rift developed between Keating and the Nixon administration over U. S. policies toward Pakistan, and Mr. Keating resigned in 1972 to resume law practice in New York City. A year later he was recalled to foreign service for the post in Israel.

In addition to his wife, whom he married last June, he is survived by a daughter Judith, from his first marriage, and two grandsons.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick Schweitzer, 84, of Pennington, President Emeritus of Bloomfield College and Seminary, Bloomfield, died May 5 at his home. Dr. Schweitzer was a former Moderator of the Synod of Pennsylvania of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., and assistant to the Stated Clerk of the General Assembly.

Born in Philadelphia, he was a 1915 graduate of Princeton University and received a Master of Theology from Princeton Seminary in 1924 and a Doctor of Divinity from the College of the Ozarks in 1928. He served as ship's chaplain at on the U.S.S. Troop Transport Matsonia during World War II.

He held pastorates in the Second Presbyterian Church in Cranbury from 1919-24 and in the Presbyterian Church of Ridley, Pa. from 1924-45. He became president of Bloomfield College and Seminary in 1945 where he served until 1959. During his tenure, Bloomfield expanded its liberal arts program and its business program, and he was awarded an honorary PhD in Law in 1958.

Husband of the late B. Dora Page Schweitzer, he has no survivors. The funeral was scheduled to be held at 2 Wednesday at the Hermon Church, Philadelphia, the Rev. Walter Coates, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Pennington, officiating. The Rev. Donald R. Pepper of the First Presbyterian Church of Bernardsville will deliver the eulogy. Memorial contributions may be made to the First Presbyterian Church of Bernardsville or the First Presbyterian Church of Pennington.

Mrs. Alice S. Dyer, 91, of 153 Jefferson Road, died April 30 in the Montgomery Medical Home, Freehold. Born in Cambridge, Mass., Mrs. Dyer lived in Boston most of her life before moving to Princeton 23 years ago. She was a member of the Old South Church of Boston.

Widow of John L. Dyer, she is survived by a son, Henry S. Dyer of Princeton; three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. The funeral was held in the Niles Chapel of the Nassau Presbyterian Church with interment in Cambridge Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

Mrs. Mabel G. Longstreet, 86, of Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, died May 2 in Princeton Medical Center. She was born in Eatontown and lived in Rocky Hill most of her life. She was a former member of the Ladies Auxiliary of Rocky Hill Hook and Ladder Co.

Widow of Edward S. Longstreet, she is survived by two granddaughters, Mrs. Peggy D. Harris of Rocky Hill and Mrs. Shirley D. Eisenmann of Hillsdale and three great-grandchildren. A graveside service was held in the Rocky Hill Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill.

Elizabeth Taylor, 67, of Canal Road, died April 29 in Princeton Medical Center. A lifelong Princeton resident, Mrs. Taylor was a member of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church and its chancel committee.

Surviving are her husband, William C. Taylor; a daughter, Barbara, at home; two brothers, James W. and Bryan V. Moore; and a sister, Mrs. Alice Satterfield, all of Princeton. The service was held in the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, with interment in Princeton Cemetery.

Martin Breese, 71, of 69 Washington Street, Rocky Hill, died May 5 in Princeton Medical Center. A lifelong Rocky Hill resident, Mr. Breese retired in 1973 after 20

FASHION SHOW COMING May 19. The Women's

College Club of Princeton will present "Spring Showcase," a fashion show featuring clothes from Clayton's of Nassau Street on Monday, May 19, at 1:30 at the Present Day Club.

Club members who will model are Mesdames John L. Cullen; Donovan R. Ellis, Jr.; Myron N. Easton, Jr.; Walter F. Fullam; Vahan Hogroian; Leslie L. Vivian, Jr. and William R. White.

Assisting the models with their changes will be Mesdames Barton Kreuzer; William E. Reaser; Robert Steiner and William W. Turnbull. Miss Nina Tacco, a PHS sophomore and pupil of Naomi Chandler, will provide the piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Floyd J. Campbell, manager of Clayton's on Nassau Street, will coordinate the show, which will range from sports clothes to formal wear, and Mrs. Roger Willock, a club member, will deliver the commentary. Mrs. Donald J. Grove and Mrs. John A. Hewitt, Jr. are co-chairmen of the program committee.

WORKSHOPS PLANNED To Follow Day For Women. Follow-up workshops on three of the most popular "Day for Women" subjects will be held this spring at the Princeton YWCA, Avalon Place, beginning on May 15.

Assertive Training, Management Techniques and Feeling Guilty will be offered. Further information on dates, fees and registration may be obtained at the YWCA office, or by calling 924-4825 ext. 22.

Police Week Proclaimed

Township Committee has declared the week of May 11, as National Police Week and as Princeton township Police Memorial Day in tribute to all deceased law officers and especially those who have given their lives in the line of duty. A committee led by Lieutenant Richard V. Steiner and Lieutenant Michael Lisi is in charge of activities.

In co-operation with a proclamation issued by Mayor Junius J. Bleiman and Chief Frederick Porter, all policemen will wear black tape across their badges as a symbol to officers who have died.

On Saturday Police Headquarters in Township Hall will be open from 10 to 5 to residents, parents and their children. Highlights of "Open House" will be a tour of headquarters, equipment, facilities and movies. The theme of the day: "Bicycle and Pedestrian Safety."

Tours by student groups can be arranged by calling Lt. Steiner at 921-2100.

BUNNEMEYER M.D.

If Yankee Doodle had ridden his pony into town Saturday, he'd have put a feather in his hat and called it the sunniest, happiest town he'd seen in some time.

There were a few grumpy shop-keepers who thought business dropped off, and some teen-agers who missed rock bands and artisans who would have liked to sell their wares, but other than that, not a complaint.

Borough police estimated 10,000 people, in the span from noon until 4:30. You couldn't even get into "Morven," because of the crowds and Governor Brendan Byrne, who greeted about 4,000 people, stayed the whole time and seemed to be enjoying himself hugely.

"I'd never been in 'Morven' before," was a comment you heard often. And what better day for paying your first call than the opening of Princeton's Bicentennial celebration, the day marked for turning Nassau Street into a Living Museum of Princeton's past.

"The sun is in Pittsburg and is on its way," was the promise made by weatherman David Ludlum, of Science Associates, to Anne Reeves, chairman of the day's celebrations, and the warm sun did make it from Pittsburg and stayed all afternoon.

Noon began with a March of Time parade, and ribbon prizes to 50 people—almost everyone who bothered to dress got a ribbon. One was Barbara Smoyer, whose husband Stanley is head of the Bicentennial committee for Princeton. He was delayed in Boston—like Paul Revere—so his wife came for him, wearing a 1930s dress belonging to her mother-in-law. She won, need you ask? a ribbon.

Wounded soldiers were all over the field, dressed in wounds from various wars here and there. Lots of Huck Finns, granny gowns and people dressed like 1975 suburbanites on a warm day.

The dancers you see pictured here were all over town.

The spanking pair and the Victoria were lent by Claude Hoops of Pennsylvania. The 1929 Model A Ford Station-wagon belongs to George Rightmire of Griggstown.

(The most memorable quote of the day came with a sigh over the Borough's police radio, "Who's going to be responsible for horse droppings?" Nobody had ever thought of that. Mrs. Reeves herself, with a committee colleague, used paper plates as shovels and cleaned Nassau Street.)

Exhibits in shop windows kept strollers uptown all day. Langrock's had a splendidly skirling collection of Colonial uniforms (with anachronistic U.S.A. buttons!) and a book in Hinkson's window listed the five professors and 80 students who were scholars here in 1810, and that clock came from the old Mt. Lucas School.

Many merchants did feel that people stayed away from their stores on Saturday. "It hurt us, no question," said one. But another countered, "We were busy all day—it was unbelievable!" Obviously,

The Country Mouse was not a complainer, (see the special sign, above).

Of the 20 portfolios of prints by Princeton artists, 13 have been sold, at $1,000 each. One woman was overheard saying to her husband, "Give me $1,000. We're going to buy one."

What will you remember? Richard Loatman's Johnson Park School kids singing "God Bless America" and "John Henry" on the steps of Nassau Hall? That 1941 "Godfather" Cadillac? The man who had gone to Nassau Street School in 1901? Or just the fun of walking down the middle of Nassau Street?

FAIR PLANNED MAY 17

In West Windsor. The West Windsor-Plainsboro PTA Fair will feature a raffle drawing for an 11-piece redwood patio set to be held at 3:30 on Saturday, May 17 at the Maurice Hawk School, Clarksville Road, Princeton Junction.

The winner need not be present and the scholarship fund will benefit from the proceeds. Tickets are now available at $1 at Will's Shell Service Station on the Princeton-Hightstown Road. For further information, call the raffle co-chairmen, Betty Kostue, 799-0232, or Barbara McIntyre, 799-2558.

LIONS' LADIES ARE 25 in June. A dinner dance celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Princeton Lions Club will be held Saturday, May 17, in the Palmer Room of the Nassau Inn. A roast beef buffet will be followed by dancing.

On June 19, 1950, the club was chartered with 28 members and Mrs. Gertrude Frazier, president. The purpose was to assist the Lions Club and to undertake civic work voted by the members.

Card parties, fashion shows, bake sales, raffles and rummage sales have netted profits to help support state and local charities, nursing scholarships, aid to the underprivileged, community chest, day camps and other worthwhile endeavors.

News Of The CHURCHES

ORDINATION SET

For Council President. Jerry C. Van Sant, president of the Princeton Area Council of Community Services, will be ordained to the Christian ministry on Sunday at 10 in Christ Congregation by the United Church of Christ. The preacher will be the Rev. John Mulengerg, Personnel Director, Division of Overseas Ministries, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

Later this month, the Van Sant family will fly to Jakarta where he will be the senior representative for Church World Service in Indonesia.

PENTECOST OBSERVED

In Outdoor Service. The Worship Committee of the Princeton Interfaith Council will have a special Pentecost service outside the Friends Meeting House on Quaker Road on Sunday, May 18, at 7:30 p.m. Participants in the service will include representatives from several different congregations in Princeton.

Rabbi Hershel Matt of the Jewish Center and Rev. K.S. Dannenhauer of Christ Congregation will speak on the significance of the feast of Pentecost in the Jewish and Christian faiths. For Jews Pentecost is the commemoration of the handing down of the Ten Commandments at Mt. Sinai, while for Christians it is considered the birthday of the Church since on Pentecost the Holy Spirit came upon the disciples at Jerusalem.

The service will include readings, music, brief talks, and prayers and meditation.

The service is open to the public and will be moved inside in case of rain.

JUNG FILM SLATED

By Princeton Seminary. "The Story of Carl Gustav Jung," a Time-Life film from BBC-TV, will be presented by the Christian Education department of Princeton Theological Seminary on the rear of the church on Friday, in Pierce Hall, Trinity Church, at 9 p.m. Following the film Dr. Ann Wood, a Jungian analyst, will lead a discussion.

The film traces Jung's childhood in Lauden, Switzerland and moves to Basel, where he studied medicine at the University and where he had his vision, and to the Burgholzi mental hospital in Zurich, where he worked as a young psychiatrist. It also explores his relationship with Freud. Jung's psychiatric work is examined and the building of Bollingen, on whose foundations he carved the dream figures brought back from his explorations of the unconscious. His theory of the collective unconscious and his views on mythology, alchemy, dreams, time and space are also discussed.

The film ends with a study of Jung in old age, showing his attitude toward Christianity and death and dealing with the "Shadow." It includes revealing interviews with Aniola Jaffe, Jung's secretary, who edited his autobiography, and with colleague Dr. C.A. Meier, who now holds Jung's old Zurich professorship.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Morning Star Church of God in Christ will sponsor a dinner Saturday. Barbecue ribs will be available at $3.50 and chicken and ham at $2.50.

The Unitarian Church will show the films, "Diet for a Small Planet," based on the cookbook by the same name which advocates protein complementarity, and "Earthbread," all about making whole wheat bread, Friday at 8 p.m. Discussion and vegetarian snacks will follow.

The Women's Association of Plainsboro Presbyterian Church is sponsoring a Flea Market on Saturday from 10-3. Soaces are still available at $3. Vendors must provide their own tables, which must be attended at all times, and the church will furnish two chairs per space. Individuals, and organizations as well as dealers are invited to participate. Parking space is at the rear of the church on Friday, in Pierce Hall, Trinity Church, at 9 p.m. Following the film Dr. Ann Wood, a Jungian analyst, will lead a discussion.

The First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill on Washington Street will hold its' spring rummage and bake sale, Saturday from 9:30-2. A special $1 bag sale will begin at 12:30.

COLT NEW ADDITION
To Turney Motors. Turney Motors, which has sold Dodge cars and trucks at 225 Nassau Street since 1938, has been awarded a franchise by Chrysler Corporation to sell the Dodge Colt, Chrysler's subcompact car. Richard Appleby, president of Turney Motors, said that the Colt models would be on display soon.

One of the better small cars on the U.S. market, Colt is manufactured for Chrysler by Japan's Mitsubishi Ltd. Sales have grown steadily to a high of more than 40,000 last year.

There are two hardtop models, the Colt GT and the Colt Carousell; a 2-door coupe and a 4-door sedan and two Colt station wagons, both with four doors. One is more elaborate with an estate package.

Martin Reef, sales manager for Turney, reports that, from the enthusiast's point of view, antenna (it's located in the probably the most interesting trunk lid) and a three-way among the 1975 lineup is the turn signal that also operated the dimmer switch and model that has a base price of $3,628.

The GT engine, 2000 cc overhead cam in-line, displaces 122 cubic inches compared to 97.6 in the other models. It has an intriguing 5-speed transmission, with an .86 to 1 overdrive fifth gear.

The fifth gear serves two purposes: it is more economical in sustained running and, more important, it allows the engine to run at slower speed and cut down on wear. There is a full complement of instruments including tachometer.

Mileage is good. In more than several hundred miles of combined city and highway driving, the GT averaged slightly better than 20 miles per gallon. Another plus is that Mitsubishi engineers have been able to meet U.S. emission requirements without the use of a catalytic converter thus permitting the use of regular gasoline.

Among standard features are an adjustable-tilt steering wheel, power disc brakes up front, tinted glass, a hidden

EARNINGS UP
At Mathematica. Mathematica, Inc. (OTC) had record revenues and earnings for the nine months ended March 31, Dr. Tibor Fabian, president, has reported.

Operating revenues increased 30 percent to $10,755,600 from $8,274,800 for the same period a year ago.

Net income for the nine months was $414,700 compared to $382,400 a year ago, which includes an extraordinary gain of $49,200. Net income per share was 59 cents compared with 54 cents last year.

The company's participation in a large-scale national health insurance study is being discontinued, but the revenues produced by that study are being replaced by other projects. Mathematica is a consulting and research firm working in the areas of operations research, system analysis, economic analysis, opinion research and survey development.

NAMED VICE-PRESIDENT
Of Consulting Firm. Chris R. Geckeler of Canal and Butler Road has been elected a vice-president of Cresap, McCormick and Paget, Inc., a New York management consultant firm.

Mr. Geckeler joined CMP in 1966 from Urban America, Inc. and serves as Eastern Region manager of government, education and social services. He holds a BA degree in politics and economics from Princeton University.

NEW VICE-PRESIDENT

For Research Company. Applied Data Research has named Robert M. Caughey as Vice-President. ADR President John R. Bennett announced today. Mr. Caughey is a Group Product Manager for the Librarian and Roscoe, two of ADR's software products. The Librarian is one of the world's largest selling software products with over 2,500 installations worldwide. Mr. Caughey who has been with ADR 14 years, started as a programmer. He lives in Belle Mead.

RECORD EARNINGS

For Applied Research. The highest first quarter sales and earnings in its 14-year history were reported by Princeton Applied Research Corporation, a manufacturer of research and analytical instruments. Sales of $2.3 million were up 23.5 percent and income of $143,800 was up 238 percent over the corresponding figures in the first quarter of 1974.

A new polarographic analyzer which is completely automated by an integrally-designed microprocessor computer was announced in March. Shipments are scheduled to begin in the third quarter of 1975.

EXECUTIVES SOUGHT

By New Division of SVA. Scientific Venture Consultants, Inc. 14 Washington Road, has announced the organization of Frank A. Alrich & Associates, a new division to conduct executive and professional searches.

The new venture represents SVC's formal entry into the highly competitive and recently troubled executive recruiting industry. Over the past five years the firm has been active in the field informally.

According to Henry L. Schwartz, vice-president and partner of the parent financial advisory and personnel consulting firm, "We strongly believe there is a need for a competent professional executive recruiting group in this area, and we are fully confident our organization can fulfill that need. Major executive search consulting has until now been centered in a relatively small group of large firms doing most of the work. We intend to change that pattern by offering an effective personalized, adaptive service that is immediately responsive to the client's needs."

The $100-million a year executive recruiting industry has been troubled recently by the current downturn economic climate which has caused executives to be reluctant about making changes. Mr. Schwartz believes, however, that such a condition is not overly hampering since recruiters generally seek successful executives happily and gainfully employed who can be lured by the promise of more happiness and more gain.

Scientific Venture Consultants was established in 1970 primarily to provide financial and technical assistance to emerging high-technology companies in the greater Princeton area. Since then, the firm has expanded into personnel consulting, particularly equal employment opportunity planning, compensation, organization development and manpower planning.

NCAA BID LOST
By Tiger Lacrosse Team.
With less than four minutes to go in Tuesday's lacrosse game with Rutgers, Princeton had an 11-9 lead and seemed assured of a place in the NCAA playoffs. The Tigers needed only a victory over ninth-ranked Rutgers to hold their own eighth-place position, the lowest berth to qualify for a shot at the national tournament.
In the closing minutes, however, the Scarlet outscored the home team, 4 to 0, and took home a 13-11 triumph. The defeat lowered the Orange and Black's record to 8-5, and although it will be Princeton's first winning season in the sport since 1967, inability to qualify for the NCAA's is a major disappointment.

Rutgers broke out to a 4-0 lead and increased its margin to 6-1 before a Princeton rally narrowed the gap to 6-4 at the half. The Tigers then took charge in the third quarter, leading 8 to 7, when it ended.
They moved further in front as the game neared an end, leading 11 to 9 with the clock beginning to run out. The visitors controlled the last four faceoffs, however, and scored four times in less than four minutes.
PHS BLANKED, 7-0
By Notre Dame Tuesday.
There is no light in sight at the end of the tunnel for the Princeton High School baseball team.
Tuesday afternoon it was visiting Notre Dame's turn as the Irish's sophomore hurler, John Walker, limited the Little Tigers to two hits—singles by Scott Thompson and Pete Watson. Mike Boonin, holder of Princeton's only victory in nine games, took the loss. He pitched three and two-thirds innings.
Other Sports
On Pages 16B - 19B

Once again it was a big inning that put the game out of reach. Notre Dame combined five hits including two doubles and two PHS errors in the fourth to score six runs. Watson came on in relief.
PHS threatened in the first when it loaded the bases with two out but was unable to get anything across. The game was called after six innings because of darkness. Walker, who had defeated PHS in an earlier meeting for his first high school win, worked five innings. The victory increased Dame's record to 9-3.
SLUMP CONTINUES
For Hun School Nine. Once beaten Peddie (7-1) took advantage of a slumping Hun baseball team Monday to carve out a 7-3 victory and hand Hun (7-5) its third loss in a row.
Marty White limited Hun to six hits and fanned 12 to win his third without a defeat. Hun's Tom Sumners, who took the loss, gave up run-scoring doubles to John Boyko and Scott Carduner. Peddie scored four runs in the first inning; Hun scored all its runs in the final two frames.

Softball on Sunday
The Princeton Quarry Park and Mercer Hill associations will hold a softball game on Sunday at 1:30 at Marquand Park.
The game has been arranged to publicize their shared aim to preserve Princeton's dwindling and irreplaceable natural and historical resources. The PQPA has been working for over a year to save the former quarry site at the end of Spruce St. from condominium development and to see that the area is preserved for the recreational needs of the community.

it didn't hurt so much, Princeton High School lacrosse coach Bill Cirullo could probably smile about the unending misfortune that has befallen his Little Tigers.
Monday's fifth loss in a row to a strong Pingry team, one of the top squads in the area, was perhaps the cruelest of all. It lost in double overtime, 10-8, but not before it had taken a 4-1 halftime lead.

Two minutes into the third period, Pingry evened the score at 4-4. Four times the Little Tigers came back to take a one goal lead and four times Pingry tied it—the last time at 8-8 with a few minutes left to go.

The fates teased PHS one more time. Near the end of the first overtime, Cirullo reported, Mace Mohrman, the team's leading scorer, found himself three yards in front of a wide open net. He took a good shot and tried to reach the opposite corner but the Pingry goalie managed to slide over and get a leg on Mohrman's shot.

"It would have been sweet revenge for last year," said Cirullo, when Pingry also defeated PHS in overtime. As it was, Mohrman "had a super day," said Cirullo, scoring three goals and also-three assists. Alex Kinnan had two goals and two assists and Morgan Mohrman one each. Alex Wert, who continues to get his one goal a game, and Bill Cobb added single tallies.
"Since PDS, we've been playing good lacrosse, but we just can't seem to lift it over the top," said a frustrated Cirullo.

Pingry scored twice with about a minute left in the second overtime when PHS had a man in the penalty box. "They came at us with a fast break and Kinnan came up from behind and fouled on the shot. It was a good play," Cirullo said.
"It was a do or die situation. He had to do it."

MELLOW AND MARVELOUS

and an investment tool. Set on top of a hill on a small side street with a view of rolling countryside surrounded by gorgeous old trees is this handsome half-century old house. Spacious welcoming entrance hall, elegant living room and pretty diningroom all have French doors out to the big screened porch or terrace (what a house for entertaining!). Roomy, well-equipped kitchen, cozy den, master suite plus 5 more bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths, paneled (with lavatory and outside entrance for use of swimmers in need!) plus work and storage room provide ample space for all the needs of a large family.
The lovely 1 1/2 acre grounds, professionally landscaped for year-round eye appeal, include a subdividable lot for future investment appeal and such goodies as a handsome old boxwood hedge surrounding a goldfish pool complete with fountain, and a fine fenced pool with bathhouse. Plaster walls, slate roof, and sound basics are added assets of this healthy, happy and handsome house. $120,000.

ATTRACTIVE OLDER COLONIAL near Battlefield. Solidly built some thirty years ago, it boasts such goodies as nice architectural details, plaster walls, well kept hardwood floors, and a slate roof. The front to back living room is nicely proportioned, dining room pleasant, kitchen and powder room. Upstairs there are three bedrooms, tiled bath and study with bookshelves. Walk up attic, full basement, and a separate 2 car garage. Extras include a terrace shaded by mature trees, excellent established landscaping, and a lot that backs up to forever open space of the expanded Battlefield Park. Offered for June occupancy at just $79,500.

LOOKS CAN BE DECEIVING

This newly listed brick and frame two-story in a pleasant Edgerstone area looks from the outside like an appealing small house, but the inside opens up to provide ample living space for a large, multi-aged family. On the first floor are entrance hall; pretty living room with fireplace and sliding glass doors opening to the wooded grounds; dining room with bay window; cheery kitchen with eating space; 3 good bedrooms and 2 baths. The second floor consists of two spacious rooms, big enough for "dormitories" but with the cozy, eavesy appeal of attic hideaways; many built-in shelves and cabinets; and full bath. Most of the basement area has been handsomely finished into a fine big, light family room and a good study (usable as a 6th bedroom) and a half bath with plumbing for shower. In addition, there is a "game room" big enough for a ping-pong table and a utility-work room. The house is solid, well-built, in good condition, and attractive. Combine those assets with all that space and an excellent location, and we think you'll agree that this house is unusually fairly priced at $115,000.

INTERESTING BUSINESS FOR SALE: Unusual opportunity for art-oriented person(s). Business may be purchased in toto or in part. Contact us for details. Asking $37,500 for the whole.

UNFURNISHED HOUSE FOR RENT: Living-dining room with fireplace; kitchen with self-cleaning oven; large laundry area (could be breakfast room); family room, 3 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths. Washer, dryer, dehumidifier; air-conditioner included.
Littlebrook School area. Available June 1 or 15 for 1 year with option to renew. $450 mo.

This large brick house, built into a hillside sloping down to Lake Carnegie, was planned to take full advantage of its delightful setting. The entrance hall (with built-in planter), has a lake view, as do the attractive living room (with fireplace and thermopane picture window) and the dining room (with French doors to the terrace.) Fine working kitchen with eating area, three bedrooms, cedar paneled den, and 2 baths are all on the top level. The garden level below opens on the patio and fine Sylvan pool, enclosed by a rose-covered fence. On this floor are a 14 x 34 (!) family room with fireplace, sauna, darkroom, laundry, pool filter and heater, and spacious storage areas with built-in cabinets. Atop it all is a walk-up storage attic. The lovely grounds, thanks to old trees and fine professional landscaping, provide summer privacy and year round pleasure.
And what a list of extras: snow blower, rotary lawnmower, firewood, water softener, fireplace screens, some wall-to-wall carpeting. AND an aluminum rowboat! Offered at $135,000

Boats, horses and the best of all Worlds - can be yours in this adorable three bedroom house overhanging the Delaware.
Pleasant living room with corner windows looking up and down stream, cozy dining room, small kitchen, but one where you'll even enjoy dishwashing because of the view! Downstairs, a paneled recreation room with bar opens to a terrace, and below that, a grassy picnic area with your own dock and boat runway.

Across the road, on a separate lot, is a small horse barn with two stalls and tack room, 2 car garage, and garden shed. Plenty of room for a small paddock or riding ring!
Charming old wide floor boards, plaster walls, contrast with new as tomorrow aluminum siding. Two terraces, and oh, that view! For a small family with many activities, here is a find. Offered for August occupancy, with the chance of buying the speedboat and trailer too. $54,500

You'll like our moving service for what you DON'T get. Like...

MILDEW... MOLD... INSECTS... BAD DOORS

Protecting your things from nicks, dents and scratches is only part of our job. We think it's just as important that we keep your belongings spotlessly fresh and clean. So we treat our vans and the pads we use with the famous SANITIZED process. A unique precaution that assures the freshness of everything you own. For a really "clean get-away" on moving day, call us.

"Where Professionalism and Integrity Go Hand in Hand"

Princeton Township:

In the Historic Battlefield Area

Situated on a beautiful hillside soon to be in bloom in Princeton's Parkside Drive section is a lovely colonial split that offers you one of the best values in a moderately priced home in the Princeton Western section. Inside, is a living room with raised hearth fireplace suitable for entertaining on a grand scale, a cheerful dining area, and a delightful eat-in kitchen with pine cabinets in the colonial tradition. Just a few steps away is a rustic knotty pine family room and a downstairs powder room and laundry room. Upstairs, are three cheerful and spacious bedrooms and one and a half baths. Tastefully decorated throughout and overlooking natural open space with Stony Brook close at hand for a peaceful woodland walk! Need we say more than to remind you of the three most important factors in real estate: location, location, location! Can you afford not to move into this incomparable setting with all of the wonderful advantages of living in Princeton.

4 NASSAU STREET • PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY 08540
609-921-1050

This beautiful big house located on Westcott Road is perfect for a large active family who enjoys entertaining on a grand scale. The living room has two handsome twin fireplaces with hand carved American eagles.
Twenty people can be seated in the commodious dining room. A professional designer created the pantry to store all those platters and glasses and to accomodate a dozen people (and an autocrat) around the breakfast table.

A lovely paneled study leads into the booklined library with its black marble fireplace. For the serious scholar there is a light dry room under the library for storage of papers or whatever!

The serene master suite has a large bath, sitting room with fireplace and enough closets to hold ALL your clothes—honestly. There are two more bedrooms, 2 baths and a dressing room on the second floor. A super third floor has four nice bedrooms and a big bath to adapt to any number of children and their guests.

There is a lovely double lot with a lot of old shade trees and a charming 2 room playhouse.

CALL now and be the first to see a house of which we're very proud!

MOTHERS DAY can be every day in this executive ranch home that provides you with 3 twin size bedrooms, 2 baths, family room, formal dining room, ultra modern kitchen and then there's a separate place for Mom and Dad. Completely private 3 rooms and bath which include a modern kitchen, and excellent location and it's only $50,000. An unreal value.

OVER 100 YEARS OLD (NEW LISTING) loaded with early American charm which includes up to 6 bedrooms, 3 fireplaces (one a walk-in); it needs work but it sits nicely on 89 acres with long road frontage and overlooks historic Washington Crossing Park in Hopewell Township. It's a great investment at $2,000 per acre.

IN THE SPRING — A young man's fancy turns to love or possibly his own business. Here we offer him this extra nice 3 bedroom ranch house on ½ acre of land and a huge detached workshop presently used as an antique shop with lots of room for expansion. It's a great opportunity for $57,500

OVERLOOKING LAMBERTVILLE — Recently renovated inside and out. This single brick home has 7 rooms including a 25' living room and a superb master bedroom suite. Lots of wall to wall carpeting, new ultra modern bath and a wooded lot all go with this excellent buy at $39,900.

AN OASIS JUST OUT OF TOWN — Just listed in the Stockton area. A delightful ranch house that offers a large living room with fireplace, 2 good sized bedrooms, 1½ baths, finished basement, breezeway and attached garage. It's on a 150 x 150 lightly wooded hillside lot with excellent landscaping and a 20 x 40 Sylvan swimming pool. A great home for $51,900.

REDUCED FOR THE SECOND TIME — This all brick ranch house was professionally appraised for $72,500 and now it's down to $67,500 for a fast sale. There are 7 rooms, 2½ baths, plush wall to wall carpeting throughout, ultra modern kitchen with a large built-in refrigerator and freezer. Outside, the landscaping and view are the greatest.
And as an added bonus a swimming pool. Call now!

R.D. 2 Princeton
 Hopewell Township

At the tip of Pretty Brook Road, where it's called Cleveland Lane, nestled snugly and beautifully on almost three ideal acres, is a Pre-Revolutionary New Jersey farm house - that may be the answer to your prayers! Technically, in tip-top shape, having been soundly renovated by the illustrious Katzenbach family - aesthetically and authentically - there's still work to be done. But basically a perfect situation: clapboard exterior, shingle roof; wide old floor boards; original mouldings; two delightful fireplaces with hand-carved mantels and brick hearth; two staircases; flagstone floored foyer and garden room - beamed ceiling, living room, efficient kitchen, 5 bedrooms, 3 1/2 baths! Oh yes, and another plus - a three-stall barn in tip-top shape, good pasture, fencing a stream - and when the weather is warmer - a large swimming pool. All surrounded by estate and conservation acres - The price is perfect, too - Only $125,000. Please call Jack Henderson to see this exceptional listing!

Trio Who Began Teaching at PHS in Mid '30's Will Retire When School Year Ends in June

They paid me $500 for the whole year, to substitute in everything — from boys' gym to home ec. to English."

"I remember in the war, we dropped varsity sports and concentrated on intramurals, to save gas."

"Princeton High's Latin students just kept winning prize after prize — it was almost embarrassing."

they are comparative youngsters in terms of service.

You might not guess, to look at Peterson, Borger and Warren, that they have 113 years of teaching among them. Mr. Borger, a quiet and amiable man with scarcely nothing. I wanted to teach either English or History, but there was no opening. Then, for the 1938-39 year, he offered me $500 to substitute in everything!" and Marie Reilley laughs at the recollection.

"Well! I taught boys' gym—'Play soccer!' I'd tell them—and metal working and home ec, when I didn't know how to boil water, and chemistry and science and I'd never take either and math., and despised math. I would three people all at once. There were about 1,000 kids in a high school that year, a believe me, I taught them all."

Marie hadn't yet married Edward Warren—that came in 1943—and many of the kids she taught in PHS in '38 were just about her own age, a had grown up with her in the same neighborhood.

Few Problems. "I love kids," she smiles warmly. "I love to teach. And you know I've never had much in the way of problems with discipline. When Bill Rhoads was PHS principal, he told me

Three teachers at Princeton High, each with almost 40 years in the Princeton schools, will close their desks for the last time, on the last day of school in June.

The longest service is that of Harriet Peterson, who joined the staff on September 1, 1936 as a Latin teacher. Then comes Richard Borger, who began teaching business education on September 1, 1937, and spent six years as PHS basketball coach besides, and Marie Warren, history teacher since September 1, 1939. She's been on sabbatical this year.

Two other staff members are retiring this year, too—custodian Leroy Page and math teacher Alice Reed—but any grey in his hair, Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Peterson, slim and trim in pants suits and without a trace of the schoolma'am stereotype.

But when they say, "I remember...." it goes 'way back.

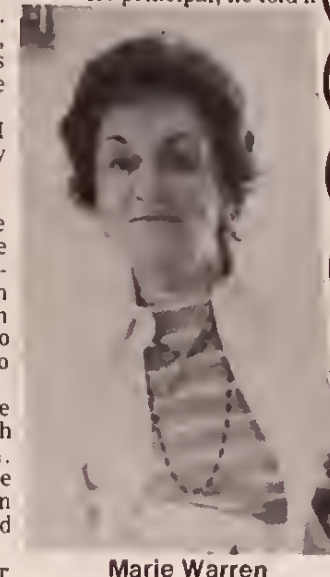

A Graduate of PHS. Marie Reilley's father owned the market—still on Witherspoon—and after she graduated from Princeton High and Georgian Court, she came back to Princeton High in 1937 to teach.

"Ted Bernard—he was the principal—made a deal with me. I'd come in at 8 a.m. every day and do ALL the substitute teaching, and in return, he'd give me a good recommendation."

"I did that half a year for

Harriet Peterson

Marie Warren

I sent fewer kids to his office than any other teacher. I don't know why—I just think kids are so great, and I always have."

Frail in recent years as the result of a serious operation, Mrs. Warren has found PHS students warm, kind and helpful.

"Why, you know, this one boy, total stranger to me, was out in back in the cigarette-smoking area when I was parking my car. He came over and said, 'Mrs. Warren, you're burning rubber, parking that way. Let me show you how.' So every morning, he'd stand and guide me into the parking space, gesturing with his hands, you know. And I'd never even had him in class."

Metal-working substitution didn't continue long, and in '39-'40, she began to teach English and finally, in the late '40's, she was assigned to history—her first and truest love.

"Then I was really in my element!" she recalls with relish, "I believe in teaching the personalities of people, the tid-bits of personal lives that make history so exciting. History is PEOPLE and the actions of people, and that's the way I taught it."

"Aggressive Girls". Always fond of dancing, Marie Warren began teaching the freshman dancing club—it was required, then. "The girls' gym was packed—we didn't have the boys' gym then—and how those ninth-grade boys feared the ninth-grade girls! They were so much more aggressive."

Dancing was so popular that an elective advanced class was started, and Marie Warren taught rhumba, samba, conga, waltz. "I tell the kids today about 'touch dancing'—it's coming back in style, you know. When I was a student at PHS, we had a dance every Friday after school and you dressed in your best."

Triangle Serves "Zucchini" American-Style To Audience Which Enjoys Every Last Bite

Almost from time immemorial, the theatre has been a vehicle used to transport audiences out of the world in which they live. The Triangle Club loaded its audience into a rollicking vehicle at McCarter last weekend, and took it to a world where charm, music and laughter flowed effortlessly.

If there is one quality above others which provides the appeal in "American Zucchini," it is the total degree of enjoyment displayed by the large (53-members) cast of characters in making their appointed rounds. There is pure pleasure to be had, and those on stage partake of it so wholeheartedly that even the dress rehearsals in an empty theatre must have been fun.

The beginning and the end are linked, because they portray the start and the finish of a day in the life of a Princeton undergraduate. In between, there is endless opportunity for sketches both musical and comic, for song both lighthearted and serious, and, thank heaven, for reincarnation of The Long Kick Line. As an ending to Act I, it is utterly delightful.

The longest, and fortunately very possibly the funniest, number is "Latin Story," a classical (in the literal sense) parody of "Love Story," whose author is currently a member of the Princeton faculty. It is typical Triangle at its best.

Highly palatable, too, are "Love for the Psych Major," the "Tennis Match," not by any means original but an enjoyable variation, "What a Morning," which opens Act II on an upbeat, "I Never Want to Do a Fast Dance Again," picturesquely danced and prettily sung, and the highly rhythmic country-western turn in which the audience enjoys its participation hugely.

Color, flow of motion, informal costumes and delightful choreography have traditionally been a part of Triangle hit shows, and all are a part of "American Zucchini." Milton Lyon, Triangle's director since 1959, has again enhanced the club's tradition of success which dates back through most of the current century.

"Zucchini" will be back June 6 and 7 for three shows. By that time, there will have been opportunity to iron out a minor flaw or two (a truly dolorous overture that totally belies the pace to come; the oversupply of flat one-liners on Annual Giving which are spotlighted on a blacked-out stage to cover scene changes.)

There are, along the dusty, often uphill path, very few fountains which offer carefree laughter and total enthusiasm for seeing that something is well done. Triangle's bid to please is well worth accepting when it returns in June.

PLAYERS' SHOW NEARS

Eight-Night Run Planned.
Opening night approaches for the Princeton Community Players' final production of the season—"And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little," by Paul Zindel. Eight performances are scheduled, instead of the usual six, on May 16, 17, 23, 24, 25, 30 and 31, in the Players' theatre at 171 Broadmead.

The playwright Paul Zindel is perhaps best known for "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds." That play, like "Miss Reardon," centers on the strident, love-hate relationships of a household of women.

Critics have commented on Zindel's special gift for writing parts for women. Aptly illustrating this fact is a statement by Mr. Zindel which will appear in the program of "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little":

"I lived in a house of women. I was very much protected and loved. Maybe. In a such a house it is difficult to become a man. Many of my mannerisms were too sensitive, too effeminate, whatever wasn't effeminate I chalked up as awkward and clumsy. Many people were cruel to me.

"Every new neighborhood we moved into I was put through the grinder. The tribe trying to kill off the unusual. So along with the part of me that wanted to love people, there grew inside of me strength to protect myself because I could slice up a person with my tongue as well as the next; but it also forced me to build a world of fantasy in which the person I wanted to be could live."

As a result, "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" is markedly strong in its observation of female character.

Directing "Miss Reardon" is a newcomer to the Princeton Community Players. Kimothy Cruse, who describes himself as "an actor who loves to direct, a director who is always acting, and an actor-director who can't wait to be a producer." Mr. Cruse has been seen in numerous summer stock productions of such plays as "A Thousand Clowns," "Bells Are Ringing," "The Lion in Winter," and "Enter Laughing." His film credits include "The Great Gatsby," "Love Story," and "The Stone Killers." This past season he worked as an assistant to Dustin Hoffman on the new Broadway comedy, "All Over Town."

The experienced cast of five women and two men consists of Liz Fillo, Diana Crane, Ann Judson, Lois Cohen, Melanie Haymond, Lorin Zissman and Jim Price. A resume of their acting credits will appear next week.

Reservations for "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" may be made by calling 609-924-5976.

UP WITH PEOPLE

Tuesday, at PDS. The "Up with People" show, a two-hour kaleidoscope of rock, jazz, country and folk music with choreographed staging, will be presented at Princeton Day School, Tuesday at 8 p.m. It puts 80 performers on stage at once, young men and women from all over the U. S. and ten other countries. With an instrumental combo of guitars, drums and funky brass, they present a show of 16 original songs.

Headquartered in Tucson, Ariz., "Up with People" selects 200 young people annually from the more than 7,000 who apply and forms three casts which tour ten months a year. As part of their educational experience they live as guests in private homes wherever they perform. An accredited university program, complete with traveling faculty, is available through the University of Arizona.

Pam Woodworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newell B. Woodworth, 1 Ober Road, is a member of the cast coming to Princeton. A graduate of Princeton Day School and Wells College, she has been on tour with the group in Europe before resuming her studies as a graduate student in architecture at the University of Pennsylvania.

FILM FESTIVAL PLANNED

On Three Sundays. The Jewish Center will present an Israeli Film Festival on Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at the center as well as on Sunday, May 25, and June 8. The movies are "The House on Chelouche Street," "I Love You, Rosa" and "Sallah."

Call Mrs. Herbert Gurk, 924-3693, or Mrs. Bernard Migler, 924-8031, for more information.

FROM TENNESSEE: In this scene from Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie," Amanda (Anne Sheldon) coaxes her son Tom (Eric Zwemer) to bring home a Gentleman Caller. It's Theatre Intime's final production of the season, opening this Thursday night.

FROM TENNESSEE
To Theatre Intime. Tennessee Williams' drama, "The Glass Menagerie," will be the final offering of this season for Theatre Intime, and playgoers can catch it either this weekend or next in Murray Theatre on campus. It will open this Thursday and will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday and again the following four days of the weekend. Seats may be reserved at 452-8181.
Ann Sheldon, who will be remembered by Princeton audiences for starring roles in P.J. & B. productions, will play the part of Amanda Wingfield. It will be her first appearance since she was injured in a fall from the runway during "Hello, Dolly" at McCarter last December. Mrs. Sheldon has been a guest performer in several productions for Summer Intime, and performed in the 1972 "Agamemnon" at McCarter—a performance for which she was cited by Clive Barnes of the New York Times.

executive director and producer of Theatre Intime for the current season, will direct the summer proceedings as well.

WHERE WERE YOU?
...In '62? With a sly aside to Triangle's "American Zucchini," McCarter will show its progenitor, "American Graffiti," in four screenings this Friday and Sunday, at 7 and 9 each evening.
A major hit of 1973, "American Graffiti" tells what happens to four California teenagers one summer night in 1962, commenting thereby on the last "innocent" year of the 1960s—the year year before political assassinations, drugs, Vietnam and Watergate.
It's the world of sock-hops, hot-rods, going steady, drive-in movies and radio personalities like Wolfman Jack.

THE PEACOCK INN
20 Bayard Lane (Rt. 206) Princeton, N.J.
PEACOCK TAPES — CONCLUSION
Q. The Peacock Inn Building has its Bicentennial coincidentally with our nation. What plans are being made?
A. The Inn hopes to continue to serve the growing Princeton area, and the Bicentennial visitors: in the restaurant for lunch and dinner; in the guest rooms for "weary travelers"; and in the 2 bars, the Peacock Alley in the cellars of the Inn, and the new cocktail bar on the dining room level.
Q. We've been reading each week about the Peacock Inn; its good food, its generous drinks, comfortable guest rooms. Tell us again where the Inn is located.
A. Just off Nassau Street, on Bayard Lane (Rt. 206). That's the street called Bayard Lane in the Borough and State Road in Princeton Township. The Inn is the third building from Nassau Street traffic signal, going north; a large white building with orange shutters.
Q. Why orange shutters?
A. Because Howard Johnson used orange very successfully.
Q. What thoughts should the readers of this series be retaining, after 2 months of intense admanship?
A. Readers who have never visited the Peacock Inn should now make that pilgrimage; old customers should return repeatedly; and all should remember the truly unusual features of this old Princeton landmark, as the Peacock Inn marks its 200th birthday as a building and 63rd as a public inn.
Q. This is the end of our discussion?
A. Yes, this series ends. Look for ads that extol the pleasures of our fresh broiled bluefish; our flounder stuffed with crabmeat, our lovely and individual bars, our old fashioned guest rooms; our famous fish and chips.
Thank you for reading this series.

Eric Zwemer, who played in Intime's "Hay Fever," will be Tom; Jamie Horton will be the Gentleman Caller and Winnie Holzman will be Laura. Both Holzman and Horton appeared in "The American Dream" and "The Sandbox" at Intime.
Sallie Brophy, who is directing, has done "Endgame," "The Homecoming," and "Happy Birthday, Wanda June" for Intime.
Mark Nelson has executed the set for "Menagerie"; Judith Weiss, a Princeton University freshman, has done the lighting for this production and also has been associate designer for the spring Triangle show.

PLANS...
For Summer Intime. No final decisions yet, but Summer Intime is considering such plays as "Charley's Aunt," "U.T.B.U.," "Oh, Dad, Poor Dad," "Old Times" and "The Heiress." Four major productions will be given during the season in Murray Theatre.
A film series, with American and foreign classics, will begin June 23 with a different film each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening throughout the summer.

The Midnight Cabaret will be back, and a children's show will be given in mid-July. A new feature for this summer is the Children's Workshop on Saturday mornings. After eight weeks of Saturday morning preparation, the children will give their own production.

Production of Medieval Spanish Court Drama Ends McCarter's Music Season on High Note

An imaginative reconstruction by the Waverly Consort of some of the "Cantigas de Santa Maria" Monday night constituted McCarter Theatre's final musical event this year. Blending the music with other elements of stagecraft, the production was in fact a theatrical performance, not a mere concert presentation. The entire Consort was brightly costumed; all participated to some degree in acting out the songs; and there were also some lighting effects.

The "Cantigas de Santa Maria," or "Songs of Holy Mary," is a group of one-voiced songs compiled by Alfonso the Wise in 13th century Spain, in honor of the Virgin Mary. There are over 400 of them, and they are thought to reflect musical trends over wide areas of Europe.

The repertory might not be recognized at first to have much contemporary appeal. It is written in the not-generally-familiar idiom of the medieval troubadour, and whereas the old manuscripts accurately transmit the words and pitches, they give the rhythms only approximately. They contain miniature paintings which depict all sorts of instruments and performers, but say nothing explicit about how the instruments were used. The language is close to Portuguese, again beyond the experience of many people.

The purpose of the songs is to praise and glorify Mary, and to relate great numbers of miracles she was reputed to have performed. These feats may have had some impact in Alfonso's time, but they come across now as laughable fairy tales.

MUSIC

Atmosphere Recreated. Thus, a successful performance today has to find the means to recreate something of the atmosphere of the age which produced these Cantigas. The Waverly Consort attacked this problem with a variety of approaches.

One was the distribution of some purely historical notes describing the music, the court at which it was compiled, and the manuscripts which preserve it, as well as a general interpretation of its content. The costumes made it easier for the audience to accept the performers as devotees from another time, who were serious about the fantastic tales they were relating.

The language difficulty was met by introducing the character of the troubadour, who translated the songs performed by the musicians. Since this narration drew only from the actual words in the poem, the true flavor of the pieces was preserved.

The actual performance problem was handled with a good deal of ingenuity. Some performance techniques known to have existed in medieval times, and others which make good musical sense but which may not be so authentic, were applied to the bare melodic skeleton transmitted by the sources. Any number of instruments would double the sung line, taken either by the soprano or the tenor, or by both together or alternately. Instruments were often heard alone. Sometimes the melody was doubled at the interval of a fifth, either by instruments or voice, and sometimes it was expanded into a two or three-part canon.

Sound Effects Varied. One or two-note drones were frequently used, and percussion as well. The noisier instruments such as the rauschpfeife and shawm were selected for the more comical tales, and the smoother sounds of the recorder, medieval fiddles and bells were used in the more serious ones. Thus the audience heard a collection of possible ways the music might have sounded in its own day.

An enjoyable facet of the performance was the variety of moods in the poems that were selected. Mary is seen not only guiding lost pilgrims and curing a crippled worshipper, but also wreaking delicious punishments such as causing a malevolent priest's nose to grow over his mouth and stretch from ear to ear. But the performers' inconsistent attitude toward the stories was bothersome.

Depicting, in the relatively serious songs, people who truly believed in the Virgin's powers, the Consort resorted to light slapstick in some of the more farfetched tales. The effect was enjoyable in itself, but it certainly contributed little to the recreation of the basically serious purpose behind all these stories.

True, the Cantigas collection mixes plenty of earthy details, which can be greatly relished, with more sublime meditations, but a mocking performance betrays today's attitude to the content rather than what the writers probably had in mind.

Enchanting Music. Musically, the performance was enchanting. Jane Bryden and Jon Humphrey have light voices perfectly suited to the medieval tone, and they blended harmoniously with each other and the instruments. They were communicative as well, setting just the right mood for both the humorous and the devotional songs.

Judith Davidoff, Kay Jaffee, Sally Logemann, and Michael Jaffee, each master of at least two instruments, played with complete clarity and, like the singers, responded nicely to the tone of the different songs. In a fanciful instrumental interlude with hints of near-Eastern influence, they displayed an admirable control over shifting rhythms.

James Selby as the troubadour held the production together with a well-delivered and well-paced narrative. But for his very occasional over-acting, as mentioned, he seemed to be speaking straight out of Alfonso's court.

CONCERT SUNDAY

In Memory of Oliver Plantinga. The third Oliver S. Plantinga Memorial Concert, sponsored by the Friends of Music, will be held Sunday at 3 in Woolworth Center. Susan Haig, pianist, will perform Brahms' "Klavierstücke, Opus 18," Mozart's "Sonata in A Minor" and four works by Chopin including "Nocturne in F Sharp Minor" and "Ballade No. 3 in A Flat Major, Opus 47."

A junior at Princeton, majoring in music, Susan Haig began studying piano at age 6. She performed in Princeton last year, sponsored by the Friends of Music and has given a number of recitals in her home town of Summit. In 1970 she won the Summit New Jersey Music Educators Competition. She is a student of Isabelle Sant Ambrogio and she is also a violist with the Trenton Symphony.

Mr. Plantinga, who died on May 8, 1972, was a long-time resident of Princeton, an excellent amateur pianist and a supporter of the arts. His widow has endowed a series of concerts under the aegis of The Friends of Music so that his enjoyment and love of fine music may be shared by his friends and neighbors as well as by succeeding generations.

The concert is open to the public, admission free.

FOLK CONCERT

At Witherspoon Church. Artie Traum will appear in concert on Friday, at 8:15 at the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church. The concert is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

Traum is well known for his work with his brother, Happy, but has recently been a successful solo performer. His fine reputation as a singer, songwriter, and guitarist has already been established.

Playing a mixture of country, blues, contemporary and traditional music, he has been called "one of the most sensitive and intelligent

Choral Festival Saturday

Westminster Choir College will once again serve as host for the annual New Jersey Junior High and Middle School Choral Festival, on Saturday. This widely popular Festival, now in its 22nd year, is co-sponsored by Westminster and the New Jersey Music Educators Association.

Some 1100 young New Jersey singers, representing 19 junior high and middle schools, will be on hand to perform for one another. The festival has traditionally emphasized the exposure of varying musical interpretations and is not structured as a formal competition. At the close of both the morning and afternoon sessions, the groups will combine to perform "It's a Wonderful Thing To Be Me" as a massed choir.

songwriters in America today" (Crawdaddy Magazine) and his guitar style has been called "brilliant, with occasional flashes of Django Reinhardt and Doc Watson" (San Francisco Examiner). He has recorded two albums with his brother and has one of his own, "Mud Acres."

Admission to the concert is $2.50, $2 for students, and $1.50 for society members. There are no advance ticket sales. For further information, call Buzz Jones at (609) 882-5531.

TRINITY CHOIR TO SING

Monday in Alexander Hall. Sacred and secular music by Bach, Purcell, Britten, Vaughan Williams and Bartok will be included in the eighth annual Spring Concert by the Choir of Men, Boys and Girls of Trinity Church on Monday, at 8 in Alexander Hall.

Conducted by Trinity's organist and director of music, James Litton, and accompanied by Harold Pysner, the assistant organist and director of music, the 50-voice choir will feature the secular cantatas "Come Ye Sons of Art" by Purcell and

The Ballad of Lady Musgrave and Little Barnard" by Benjamin Britten. Members of Princeton's Collegium Musicum directed by Joseph Kovacs will be the orchestra for the concert. Sacred works on the program will include shorter motets and anthems by Bainton, Walton, J. C. Bach and Handel. Choirmen David Arnold, Daniel Pratt and Lester Erich will be featured soloists in works by Vaughan Williams, Bach and Richard Strauss.

The concert will be the final program in the Trinity - All Saints 1974-75 Series of Musical Services and Concerts and will be open to the public without admission charge. An offering will be received to help defray expenses.

CONCERT FRIDAY

By Harpsichordist, Edward Parmentier, harpsichordist, will give a concert on Friday at 8:30 at Woolworth Center on the University Campus. The program will include works by D'Anglebert, Byrd, Bull, Frescobaldi, Bach and Couperin.

Mr. Parmentier is a third-year graduate student in musicology at Princeton. He has studied the harpsichord with Albert Fuller at the Juilliard School and recently with Gustav Leonhardt in Amsterdam.

Sponsored by the Friends of Music at Princeton, the concert is free and open to the public.

PIANO CONCERT SUNDAY

At Choir College. Miss Suzanne Sweigart, pianist, will present a spring concert Sunday at 3 in the Playhouse at Westminster Choir College. Free and open to the public, the program will include a Bach Prelude and Fugues, Brahms's Balladen (Op. 10 No. 1, 2, 3) four Skryabin Preludes (Op. 11) and the "Wanderer" Fantasia (Op. 15) by Schubert.

A resident of West Windsor, Miss Sweigart recently finished study at Houghton College and graduated with a Bachelor of Music Degree in Applied Piano.

FINAL MEETING SUNDAY

For Musical Amateurs. The final meeting for the 1974-75 season, of the Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will be held on Sunday at 5 at the Unitarian Church, J. Saints' Church. Valerie Merrill Knapp of the Princeton Music Department will conduct a reading of Mozart's "Mass in C minor," for double chorus, orchestra and soloists, namely: Marie Bogart, 1st soprano; Judy Nicosia, 2nd soprano; Donald Caldwell, tenor and Steve Owens, bass.

This reading is not a performance, and anyone interested in choral singing is invited to participate or attend. No auditions are necessary to sing in the chorus, and there are no special requirements other than modest sight-reading ability. There is a small charge for anyone without a yearly membership to cover music and refreshments. For reservations or information, call Mrs. Michael Ramus at 924-4266.

LIKE BIG BANDS?

Concert Set for May 19. The Monday Blues a band organized in 1971 at RCA Astro and composed of 17 men of Princeton, Lawrence and the surrounding area, will present a concert of big band music at Lawrence High School, North campus auditorium, Princeton Pike, Monday, May 19, at 7:30. The band will be sponsored by the Lawrence Arts Council. Admission is 50 cents for students and $1 for adults.

TWO FAITHS FEATURED

In Choir Concert. Conductor Robert Simpson at Westminster Choir College has announced the details of the May 14 Chapel Choir Concert in the Bristol Chapel at 8 p.m. Entitled "A Sacred Program of Two Faiths," it will include music by Ralph Vaughn Williams, Benjamin Britten, Vincent Persichetti, Herbert Howells, Ernest Bloch, Leo Low, David Stanley York and others.

Guest soloist for the concert is Cantor Irving Feller of the Adath Israel Synagogue of Trenton, who will perform the Kedushah of Ernest Bloch accompanied by the Chapel Choir. The two Yiddish folk songs, "Reb Dovid'l" and "Tumbalalaika" are included, and the program will close with three Hebrew folk songs entitled "Shir Haavoda," "Shir Shomrim," and "Have Netze Bemachol." Reservations for free tickets may be made by calling Westminster at 921-7100.

SOCIETY TO MEET

Recorder Players Invited. The Recorder Society will meet at 8:30 on Tuesday at All Saints' Church. Valerie Citkowitz, New York teacher and performer, will be the guest conductor.

All recorder players are welcome; a contribution will be asked to help cover the expense of the meeting. For further information, call Sylvia Fontijn, 921-8055.

2 GUITARS IN CONCERT

To Perform Classical Works. Well-known classical guitarists Durant Robertson and Michael Newman will appear as Two Guitars in Concert at the Unitarian Church on Sunday, May 18, at 8. As soloists they will perform works of Dowland, Sor and Villa-Lobos and together will present the premier performance of Robertson's new composition, "Vision for Two Guitars," in addition to the works of Lawes, Ravel and Granados.

A resident of Flemington, Michael Newman studies with Albert Valdes Blain, protege of Segovia. He made his New York debut in Carnegie Recital Hall on March 24, 1974, and his first recording on Amphiphon Records will be released this fall.

Durant Robertson, a native of Princeton, has studied classical guitar with Alexander Bellow of New York. Also a composer, Robertson has written several pieces exploiting some unusual resources of the instrument. A recording of one of his compositions, "Addison Street Rag," will be released by United Artists.

Tickets for "Two Guitars in Concert" are $3.50 and $2.50 for students. A wine reception for the 2 artists will be held following the concert. Proceeds will be used for the rebuilding of the church's Steinway grand piano. For additional information, call 609-921-6612.

CHORUS CONCERT SET

By Franklin High School. The Franklin High School Chorus, under the direction of Anthony Parisi, will present its 12th annual "Spring Concert" at the Franklin High School auditorium on Saturday, May 17, at 8. The chorus will sing works by Beethoven, Rodgers and Hammerstein and George M. Cohan. In addition there will be a negro spiritual and selections from the rock musical "Godspell," as well as selections by the members of the newly formed recorder ensemble. This year's concert will include solos performed by the director.

Donations are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students.

CENTENNIAL MARKED

By Clayton's. As an opening celebration of our country's Bicentennial, Princeton staged a day-long party last Saturday with a range of activities that included a shingle-making demonstration, a reunion for the old Nassau Street School, Ragtime piano tunes and pony cart rides.

In contributing to this Living History of Nassau Street many stores have decorated their windows with delightful displays of a Princeton that once was. Among these is H.P. Clayton which also happens to be celebrating a birthday, although a much younger one - a mere centennial.

Started in 1875 by the Waite family, Mr. H.P. Clayton purchased the store in 1915 and since then it has grown with the town. Now run by a third generation of Claytons, there are three stores, one of which exclusively handles the constantly growing area of needlework.

When something as large as a Bicentennial comes along, it pervades all aspects of life; and one influence according to Clayton's Yarn Shop's manager, Mitzy Savini, is the increased interest in the old-fashioned art of cross-stitching samplers.

If You Get Lemons...There are antique slates of letters and numerals (the kind every young girl mastered), one celebrating school days, a Bicentennial eagle and even some sayings such as "When life gives you lemons, make lemonade." Especially nice is the reasonable price of these samplers, $1.75 to $4.50.

A major part of Clayton's Yarn Shop are the popular needlepoint projects that seem to be occupying every corner of the home. One of the newest is a walnut cheeseboard with a small canvas under glass forming the cutting section. The choices include a Dutch tile or two small mice eating some cheese, $7.50 for the board and about $9 for the canvas.

We also particularly liked the natural wood magazine rack with a snap-off canvas for easy workability. It comes with or without Magazine written diagonally across the canvas and would be handsome in a bold, and quickly done, Bargello pattern, $16.

For entertaining we saw ice buckets with penguins or butterflies and trays in various sizes, including a new small one in white, black or walnut with brass handles, $15 and the canvas is separate. Then for your sporting moments there is a fox and hounds backgammon board, Rosemont, N.J., from 9 to 5 which fits in a walnut game tray, about $100; and a tennis cover with two mice in blue striped skirts hotly pursuing a game, $50 complete.

Summer Purses. The new summer purses come in pretty pastel vinyls and the shoulder bag has a clever removable velcro flap, making the project easy to work but more importantly enabling you to work extra flaps and change the look of your purse in a second. The purse is $20 and extra flaps are $5.

If you are a beginner, short of time, or just like small touches of needlepoint, Clayton's has numerous small projects. There are luggage tags, key rings, watch bands, a photo album for instamatic pictures and a small evening clutch in the same pastels as the shoulder bag, $3 to $8.

Many of these accessories have specially designed Barbara Eyre canvases complete with wool to fit them, but you can also plan your own canvas and choose from the over 300 colors of Paternayan wool tapestry yarn. The price therefore varies. For instance a square lucite wall clock is $44, while the price of the canvas depends upon your selection.

BICENTENNIAL MARKED

By Cane Farm. Throughout the country manufacturers are attempting to answer the question—What kind of a commemorative present is appropriate for a country celebrating its 200th birthday? We think Philip Cane, owner of Cane Farm Furniture, has chosen one of the loveliest suggestions.

He has recreated a hanging cupboard based on a popular colonial design followed by Connecticut craftsmen in the 60 year period from 1740 until the end of the century. An excellent example of this antique cupboard is part of the continuing display at Colonial Williamsburg.

Cane Farm has a reputation for creating quality colonial and early American furniture, and in keeping with this each cupboard will be individually handcrafted with complete accuracy to every detail. The white pine cupboard is hand-dressed and finished to recapture the beauty of the original while the interior is painted red and fitted with two shelves.

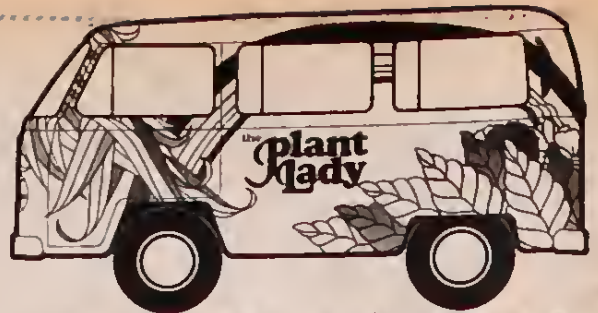

A maximum of 50 cupboards will be crafted and each will be fitted with a brass identification plate. It is compact (30", by 26 3/4" and 8 3/4") and comes with two hangers making it easy to mount on a wall.

This limited edition Bicentennial piece costs $239, and it may be just the thing you have been looking for to keep as a lasting reminder of 1776 and of the 1976 celebration.

The cupboard can be seen at Cane Farm Furniture's showroom, Route 519, Rosemont, N.J., from 9 to 5 Monday through Saturday and from 12 to 6 on Sundays.

BICENTENNIAL CUPBOARD: The Cane Farm has created this hanging cupboard, based on a popular colonial design, to mark this country's 200th birthday. Only 50 will be offered for sale.

ENGAGEMENTS

Pritchard-Nelson. Miss Mary Ann Pritchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton H. Pritchard, 113 Adams Drive, to Walter G. Nelson, son of Mrs. Walter G. Nelson, Sr. of Kinston, N.C. and the late Dr. Nelson. The wedding will take place in Marshallburg, N.C. on May 10.

The bride-elect attended St. Paul's School, Stuart Country Day School and Princeton High School and graduated cum laude from Duke University with a degree in botany. She is a candidate for advanced degrees in marine botany at the Marine Laboratory of the University of North Carolina at Moorhead City and is a freelance illustrator.

Her fiancé graduated cum laude with a BA in zoology and chemistry from Duke University and is a doctoral candidate and research assistant in marine ecology at the Duke Marine Laboratories in Beaufort, N.C.

English-Searing. Miss Nancy M. English, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. James English, Church Street, Windsor, to William N. Searing, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Searing of Hightstown. An October wedding is planned.

A graduate of Allentown

High School. Miss English attended Ursinus College and is employed by Joseph's Flowers. Her fiancé, a Hightstown High School graduate, is employed by Roller Bearing Company of America.

Parnes-Sobel. Miss Susan Jane Parnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Parnes of Princeton, to Thomas S. Sobel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sobel of Louisville, Ky. An August wedding is planned, after which the couple will live in Louisville.

WEDDINGS

Graff-Lane. Miss Sarah K. Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Lane, Pleasant Valley Road, Harborton, to Samuel Saul Graff, son of Mrs. Samuel S. Graff of Trenton and the late Mr. Graff; May 3, at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Graff, a copy editor with the Trenton Times Newspapers, was graduated from Princeton Day School and in 1971 from Barnard College. The bridegroom, an editor with the New Jersey edition of The Daily News, is a graduate of Trenton Catholic High School and Rutgers University. His previous marriage ended in divorce.

Kren-Tusa. Miss Mary E. Tusa, daughter of Joseph Tusa of Queens, N.Y., and Mrs. Patricia Tusa of Kendall Park, to Albert Kren of Princeton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Kren.

A graduate of Trenton State College, Mrs. Kren teaches health and physical education in Piscataway. Her husband, who was educated in Europe, is self-employed in office equipment.

Locke-Cronin. Miss Linda Kay Cronin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Cronin of West Windsor, to Don Edward Locke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenne Locke, of Tishomingo, Okla., March 8, Westminster Presbyterian Church, Oklahoma City, Okla. After a wedding trip the couple will live in Stillwater, Okla.

It's New to Us

In addition, to get you started or help you work out any problems, Mrs. Mavis Potter gives free instruction weekday mornings from 9 to 11:30. She also enjoys custom work and can paint a canvas just for you.

Mrs. Savini told us that crewel is also on the increase and Clayton's features the very fine Elsa Williams Needlecraft collection. We saw complete kits for a bell pull of fruits, a black and white pillow of Spanish Riders, and a series of wildflowers to be framed or used for pillows, $8 to $10.

Again, there are little projects for beginners such as a small floral oval design for each of the four seasons, $4 each and the frame is included.

Knitting is another aspect of needlework and there is an entire wall devoted to these yarns, both wools and orlons in fingering, sport, worsted and bulky weights. New for this summer is a light weight acrylic in bright colors just right for pullovers and sweater sets, $1.60 for 1 1/4 ounces.

There is also some mohair which makes a lovely summer shawl, and you can quickly turn out an open-stitched one for under $10. But if you prefer working towards cooler weather, there are two weights of the pretty heather Candide wools and the Lopi Icelandic yarn in natural colors. As the Icelandic sweaters are knit without seams on 10-inch round needles they are surprisingly quick and easy.

One of the things we enjoy most about Clayton's Yarn Shop is the excellent selection of needlework books. The new ones, some of them Bicentennial-inspired, include, "Bargello Borders," "American Cross Stitch," "Needlepoint from America's Great Quilt Designs," and "Needlepoint Designs from American Indian Art." In addition, there are many helpful small booklets and pamphlets.

In celebrating Princeton's opening of the Bicentennial, Clayton's staff will be dressed in colonial costumes this week and until Saturday there is a 10 percent sale on all purchases.

Clayton's Yarn Shop, located at 41 Palmer Square, is open from 9 to 5 Monday through Saturday.

Announcing

Well known in the Princeton community for his ability to make banking simpler and pleasant for everyone he works with, Archie Lummis has been appointed to be the personal banker for First National's YES* CASH PLUS customers. His authority extends from giving over-the-phone approval of home improvement or auto loans to making sure that the smallest detail of one of his customer's banking needs is handled properly. If you need a service or have a problem anywhere in the bank, Archie Lummis will be your own representative. You'll find it's nice to have a personal banker in the family bank.

YES* CASH Plus

Become a YES* CASH PLUS customer at First National Bank and get over-the-phone service on your loan needs, free executive benefits, and a personal representative at the bank.

YES* CASH

Introduced two years ago, the YES* (Your Extra Source) Cash Program allowed:

- A Personal Line of Credit — smaller loans are handled through your own checkbook, quickly and in privacy, and overdraft protection is automatically provided
- Free Checking — no check charge, no service charge, no minimum balance
- An optional American Express Executive Money Card — a $2,000 line of credit and other benefits

YES* CASH Plus

- Now, YES* CASH PLUS brings those who qualify all this plus extended services, including a personal banker to handle the entire program. A privilege card with Archie Lummis's direct-line phone number gives YES* CASH PLUS customers simplified personal services.
- Over-the-phone approval of larger borrowing needs. No need for lengthy visits to the bank — as your banker, Mr. Lummis knows you personally. He'll call you when your loan is arranged and your check is ready.
- Executive benefits: Bank traveler's checks, cashier's checks, certified checks, money orders, stop-payment orders, and the services of a notary public — all free of service charges!

Stop in and talk to Archie Lummis about YES* CASH PLUS, another first from Princeton's First National Bank.

FIGURINES ON DISPLAY

At Art Museum. "Jaina Figurines," an exhibition of Maya figurines from Jaina Island, has opened at the Princeton University Art Museum.

Gillett G. Griffin, the Museum's curator of pre-Columbian art, has assembled the 26 figurines from various public and private collections in the New York area, including the Museum's own collection. He was assisted by Mary Miller, a senior at Princeton University.

The pieces on exhibit were all originally found in burial sites on or near the island of Jaina, off the Campeche coast. Made of terracotta, wood and shell, they date from 500 to 900 A.D.

Jaina figurines, some of which are just several inches high, are among the most graceful and elegant works to have come out of ancient America. Because of their lifelike appearances and sometimes exquisite detail, these small figures have a wide appeal, but apart from their great beauty, they have important iconographic meanings related to Maya myths of death and the Underworld.

In the fully illustrated catalogue that accompanies the exhibition, Mary Miller delves into the problems of Jaina figures, their meanings, use, and identities. An appendix by David Joralemon, of the Center for Pre-Columbian Studies at Dartmouth College, offers a detailed discussion of one of the Jaina figures. Entitled "Jaina Figurines: A Study of Maya Iconography," the catalogue is available from The Art Museum for $5.95, plus 50 cents postage and handling.

The exhibition, which is the first to bring together at one place such a rich assemblage of these exceptional pieces, will be on view until June 29. The Art Museum is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 to 4 and Sundays from 1 to 5. The Museum is closed Mondays and major holidays.

ART SHOW SATURDAY

Auction Also Planned. A number of America's leading artists will participate in an Art Show and Auction on Saturday from 4:30-7:00 at the Woodrow Wilson School of Princeton University.

Prices are expected to range from under $10 into the thousands. The program will benefit the ACLU's tax-deductible Civil Liberties Education and Action Fund. Cocktails will be served and admission is free.

The Art Show and Auction is being held in conjunction with a day-long conference on the "Rights of the Young."

The list of artists whose work will be offered includes William Groper, Raphael Soyer, Ben Shahn, Jacob Lawrence, Salvador Dali, Philip Evergood, Andrew Wyeth, Jacob Landau, Clarence Carter, Adolph Konrad, Moses Soyer, Kathe Kollwitz, Jack Levine, Harry McCormick, Gregorio Prestopino, Stefan Martin, Yvonne Burke, James Johnson, Sonia Chusit, Judy Targan, Helen Schwartz, Don Bloom, Jeanne Rubenstein, Arnold Henderson, Henrietta Walkins, Irmari Nacht, Trudy Glucksberg, Ellen Nathan, Singer, Pearl Swanger, Anne Steele Marsh, Lorenzo Dellolio, Carolyn Keskulla, Fran Wilner, Anne Janowitz Korn, James Carlin and Charlotte Tucker. Also displayed will be the best art works of juvenile and adult prisoners in New Jersey.

EXHIBIT AT HOSPITAL

Of Child Photographs. In a place where tribute is paid to motherhood every day by proud new parents, Mother's Day takes on a special significance. And to help celebrate it, The Medical Center will hold an exhibit of child photographs by Karen Dubinsky on Friday afternoon in the main lobby.

Ms. Dubinsky is a graduate of Rochester Institute of Technology in Rochester, New York, where she received a scholarship to study advanced

THE LOFT GALLERY

INVITES YOU TO VISIT THEIR NEW

CENTER FOR THE ARTS

The Loft is Princeton's largest gallery. It is an easy walk from Nassau Street. It is an easy ride because there is always ample, free parking. Join the festivities and meet some artists and potters. The gallery is filled with paintings, drawings, sculpture.

The month of May is devoted to children. An exhibition of art work will be highly lighted by a concert, on Saturday morning. May 10th, in G.T. Zappa. All tickets, on sale now, $1.50.

For the largest selection of paintings, lovely gifts, unusual prints, unique toys; take time to enhance your day. Come to the Loft Gallery Center for the Arts, 305 Alexander Street, Princeton, 924-8056.

FIDDLING IN "FIDDLER" FOR JEWISH CENTER: Perrisue Silverstein, left, Audrey Gould and Manuela Bornstein will also play Bach and Handel at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Women's Division of the Princeton Jewish Center.

News Of Clubs and Organizations

The Women's Division of the Princeton Jewish Center will install its new officers Tuesday, at 8:15 p.m.: president, Rhona Porter; vice-presidents, Barbara Vilkomerson, Maxine Gurk, Henrietta Sherman and Irene Katz; corresponding secretary, Lois Safer; recording secretary, Joyce Copleman; treasurer, Ann Freedman.

Other members of the incoming board are Harriett Block, Fran Baum, Estelle Golomb, Arlene Witt, Karen Schotland, Joan Rosenfeld, Roslyn Freund, Eva Kalish, Jenny Fisher, Marian Tesser, Martha Rossman, Carol Horowitz, JoAnn Carchman, Claire Beskind, Betty Hurwitz, Phyllis Marchand, Marsha Freeman, Iris Newman, Barbara Savrick, Violet Miller, Nina Wolfe, Carole Lash and Anne Lowe.

The B'nai B'rith Women of Princeton will celebrate their 18th anniversary, referred to as their Chai birthday, with a gala meeting May 21 at 8:15 at the home of Phyllis and Lucien Marchand, 29 Montadale Drive. The meeting will honor past presidents and charter members of this chapter of the national organization.

Chai means "life" in Hebrew and is composed of two letters, one with the numerical value of eight, the second with the value of ten. Together they make up the symbol for 18, the number of years B'nai B'rith has been a supporter of Hillel on the University campus. The anti-Defamation League is an important function of B'nai B'rith as well as hospitals and child care facilities here and in Israel.

A musical presentation by Princeton University students will round out the program. Music of 19th and 20th century composers will be presented by Eileen Korey, flute; Carolyn Lichtenstein, piano; and Jennifer Small, violin. Refreshments served from a Viennese dessert table will follow.

The Welcome Wagon Club of Hopewell Valley will meet Tuesday at 12:30 at the Hopewell Branch of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company on East Broad Street. The speaker will be Elizabeth A. Hayes who lived in Bangkok with her family from 1968-1972. She will talk about her experiences in Thailand and how she and her family were able to adapt to an entirely different environment.

Babysitting is available on a reservation basis. Interested newcomers should contact Mrs. John Reynolds, 737-3148, for further information.

The Classical Guitar Society will see a videotape on the history of the guitar at its meeting, Tuesday, 8:30-11 p.m., in the Berrien Room of the First National Bank of Central Jersey, Rocky Hill. The society, a small group of players and makers of the classical guitar, holds monthly meetings the first Tuesday of the month to provide a forum for the playing of the classical guitar or any combination of instruments or voice which includes the classical guitar. For further information, call Hugh Lambert, 448-0492.

The Society of Mayflower Descendants (1620) luncheon on May 17 at the Pines Manor will be attended by Joan Fiore and her husband, Peter. Her ancestor on the Mayflower was Elder William Brewster.

While in Washington for the 84th DAR Continental Congress in April, she attended the Plantagenet Society and the Magna Charta Dames luncheons. Mrs. Fiore is the regent for the Princeton chapter of the DAR.

The annual meeting of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held on Tuesday, May 20, at the Nassau Inn. Kenneth A. Wells is the out-going chairman. Robert F. Shea, Manager of the American Red Cross in New York and the Harriman Metropolitan Division (New Jersey and New York), will be the keynote speaker. Election of new officers will take place and Ann Honore, Executive Director, will give an annual report on the 16 programs functioning under the Red Cross banner.

Reservations may be made by calling chapter headquarters at 924-2404.

Mr. Shea has had a long career with the Red Cross, beginning in 1942. During his Vice-Presidency for Disaster Relief, he played a key role in the historic prisoner exchange operation with Cuba in 1962-63, working closely with U.S. Government officials in Washington and with Cuban leaders in Miami. The late Attorney General Robert Kennedy commended Mr. Shea as "The driving force in getting this job done."

Suggested reading and doing: "A Princeton Guide" by Cynthia Gooding which includes tour walking tours and three driving tours, all within two miles of Palmer Square. The commentary is worth an armchair tour. Maps are included and easily followed

The FitzRandolph Gateway in front of Nassau Hall was designed by Stanford White's architectural firm. More than 60 houses have been moved from one place to another in the middle of Princeton in 1774. University students burned the supply of tea after hearing the news of the Boston Tea Party. Nassau Hall might have been called "Belcher College" in honor of Jonathan Belcher, the New Jersey governor who made possible the move of the College of New Jersey to Princeton. College commencements were held in September until 1844 and served as a platform for politicians, rowdys, eating, drinking, "playing for pennies and testing the speed of horses for the amusement of most of those assembled"

Princeton students in 1759 paid 25 pounds a year for room, commons (the food was prepared in the basement) and tuition costs. (Professors were paid 50 pounds.) Until nearly 1900, they bought their furniture, firewood and paid servants.

DRAMA AT PHS: Featured in Drama 75's production of Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes" are John Wible, Nick Halpern and Deborah Bergman as the avaricious Hubbard family. Performances will be at Princeton High School this Thursday at 7:30 and Friday and Saturday at 8. All tickets are $1, for reservations call 924-5600, ext. 224.

who appears live in the film. Richard Dreyfuss, Ronny Howard, Paul LeMat, Cindy Williams and Mackenzie Phillips star.

Monty Python's Flying Circus in its first film, "And Now for Something Completely Different," will be shown twice next Monday, at 8 p.m. and 9:45 p.m. The film is a collection from the troupe's early years of regular BBC broadcasting, and was first released in 1972. It's full of comic comment on everything stuffy, especially everything British and stuffy.

'PINAFORE' PLANNED

Auditions Next Week. The Gilbert and Sullivan Association of Princeton has announced that auditions for this summer's production of "H.M.S. Pinafore" will be held in the basement of the Talbott Library-Learning Center at Westminster Choir College Thursday and Friday, May 15 and 16, at 8 p.m. and Saturday, May 17, at 1. The Association hopes to fill both principal and chorus parts, and applicants are asked to bring a prepared musical selection, with an accompanist if possible.

Conductor Robert Willoughby Jones discussed his plans for a volunteer orchestra. "We've had excellent response with volunteer orchestras in past summer, and I've already received about 20 inquiries. We would be most pleased to learn of others who would like to play in the ensemble." Those interested should contact Mr. Jones at Westminster. Ruth Kay Walker of Philadelphia has been named stage director and choreographer.

The five performances will be held at the Washington Crossing Park on the Delaware River, July 18, 19, 24, 25 and 26.

GARDEN

And Now My Love. The main ingredient in this French comedy-drama is the director, Claude Lelouch ("A Man and a Woman") who knows how to tell a love story on film as well as if not better than anyone in the business. He has thrown in something for everyone in this tribute to French life and love, spanning all of the 20th century.

The first 20 minutes are in black and white; technicolor is used from the end of World War II onward. There are many popular songs both in French and English, and the locations range from Africa and Venice to New York's 42nd Street.

The film begins in 1900 when photographer Charles Denner meets and marries Judith Magre. He learns of his son's good, representative teams."

Students are now more accountable for their own time, classes are more informal and structured study halls—"very unsuccessful"—have been abandoned. These are the biggest changes Mr. Borger has observed in his years at PHS.

Classics in Decline. The changes Harriet Peterson has seen are linked to innovations in teaching foreign languages to early grades. And, sadly to her, the decline of Latin—her subject. Its decline has meant that she's been solely an English teacher for the last three years.

"Latin is no longer required for college admission, and is regarded as no longer relevant, but it can be, should be, and is!" she says with quite emphasis. This Douglass graduate—Phi Beta Kappa in her junior year—points to Greek and Latin culture as "the basis of our civilization, our ideas of democracy, philosophy, literature." And with a nod to the practical—

"I've had students tell me they can figure out the meaning of unknown words on the SATs, just by recognizing root and prefix."

With Glenda Richards, Mrs. Peterson watched PHS Latin students sweep the field of prizes in Latin competitions. "We'd listen to the announcement of prizes, and it would be Princeton, Princeton all the way—almost embarrassing."

"My Caesar team was tops one year. And the private schools, where you'd think Latin would be tops," she says with a chuckle, "we beat them, time after time."

English, Too! She was one of the first teachers asked to teach French to elementary grades. "I'd speak only French in class, and one day I met a friend on the street and began to talk to her, and one of my pupils came up and said, 'I didn't know you could speak English!'"

French led to a three-months' sabbatical in France,

Latin expertise to an eight-week summer in Italy, assignment to English classrooms to five weeks at the University of London, studying the literature of the 20th century. "I'd been living through it, but had never studied it."

Last summer, it was a seminar in cooperative education, meeting with education officials in Hungary, Switzerland, France, Germany and Denmark.

Retirement will mean continued pleasure in languages, music, the theatre, gardening.

"Of course, I'm going to stay in Princeton. I remember, when I lived in Greenholm and walked to Nassau Street School, I watched them build Palmer Square. One morning, I saw it was all rubble and construction debris. When I came home that afternoon—great big trees had been planted. In just a few hours, Princeton had changed that much."

What's the highest batting average ever made by any regular player for one season in professional baseball? ... The all-time record for all those who have played regularly (at least 100 games) was set by Walter Malmquist of York in the Class D Nebraska State League in 1913. His average was .477—and that's never been topped in pro ball by any regular player for one season.

According to the Guinness Book of World Records, the feminine record for carrying a brick (8 3/4 lbs.) without resting is 3.2 miles. On April 12th Anne Sparrow of Princeton, N.J., broke the record by carrying a Barrington, R.I. brick (from Fort Adams in historic Newport, R.I.) weighing 9 lbs. 11 ozs. a distance of 4.1 miles. The brick is on display at Reilly's Market on Witherspoon Street.

When Alvin Dark managed the Oakland A's to the American League pennant last season, he became only the third manager in history to win a pennant in both the American and National Leagues. Dark had previously managed the Giants to first place in the National League. The only other managers who have duplicated that feat were Yogi Berra, who won pennants with the Mets (N.L.) and Yankees (A.L.), and Joe McCarthy, who did it with the Yankees (A.L.) and Cubs (N.L.).

I bet you didn't know...that collision insurance on an older car may make sense in today's inflationary economy.

Sixteen Colleges Entered in Eastern Sprints—Harvard Favored in Day-Long Regatta on Sunday

Harvard, which won five of the six major races in 1974, is rated the crew to beat again this year when the 30th annual Eastern Sprints are held Sunday on Lake Carnegie.

The Crimson won the heavyweight and lightweight titles in both varsity and junior varsity competition last year at Worcester, Mass., and also took the freshman lightweight title. Only Cornell's showing in the freshman heavyweight finals deprived Harvard of a perfect afternoon.

Coach Harry Parker's shells will be the favorite in both varsity and junior varsity heavyweight races this year. However, Princeton and Yale's freshman heavyweight crews, and the Princeton freshman lights rate the favorite's roles in the other two big races.

A total of 16 colleges will be represented in the Sprints. The morning heats will start at 8:45 and run to 12:30, with the afternoon session scheduled to begin at 2:30 and end around 5:30.

Princeton's Albridge C. Smith III 2000 meter course on Lake Carnegie is rated one of the finest in the world. It took 12 months of nearly round-the-clock operation to build it two years ago.

Tiger Freshmen No. 1

While Princetonians attending Sunday's crew races will probably not see the Tiger varsities finish strongly in either the 150-lb. or heavyweight regattas, there is a good chance that Orange and Black-tipped oars will finish first at the freshman level.

The Class of 1978 has been seeded first in its field, based on its fine 7-1 record which includes only a loss to Yale's freshmen by a tenth of a second. The Tigers' first-year boat has since defeated Penn, Harvard and Cornell to compile the best record in the east. Princeton's 150-lb. freshmen are also strong, seeded second behind Harvard.

Seeds in the heavyweight varsity race are Harvard, first; Cornell, second; M.I.T. third; Wisconsin, fourth; and Rutgers, fifth. Harvard is seeded first in every event except the freshman heavies.

Harvard, which has dominated the varsity heavyweight competition this year, has a perfect 4-0 record, including wins over Washington and Wisconsin. Its stiffest competition in the heavyweight race figures to come from Cornell, M.I.T., Wisconsin, Northeastern and Penn.

The Harvard lightweights have lost to Navy, but the Crimson rowed the last 500 meters with just seven oarsmen after losing one to a crab.

Following the end of the league season this weekend, the schedule will come to a close with four contests, all here: Fairleigh-Dickinson Tuesday, Trenton State Wednesday and St. John's in a doubleheader Friday.

NETMEN NEAR TITLE

Face Harvard Here Friday. A match with Harvard on the University courts Friday at 3 is the last major hurdle barring the Princeton tennis team's path to successful defense of its Eastern Association title. The Crimson has a 6-1 mark in the current standings, while the Tigers are 7-0.

Shutout victories (9-0) over Cornell and Army last weekend extended Princeton's consecutive victory string to 31 against association opponents. The Tigers hold a 9-0 victory over Columbia, which has already defeated Harvard, and are heavily favored in Friday's match.

Dartmouth will be here Saturday at 2, with a 1 o'clock match on Sunday, May 18, against Penn State concluding the schedule.

IVY GAMES WON

By Tigers in Lacrosse. Third place in the Ivy League was assured for Princeton's lacrosse team last week when it added Brown and Harvard to its list of victims that earlier had included Dartmouth and Yale.

The Tigers' occasionally troubled defense yielded 20 goals in the two games but apart. The final two runs crossed the plate in the ninth when successive Princeton batters were hit by the Cornell pitcher with the bases loaded. Shortstop Dennis Spates led the attack with three hits.

Nothing but the hitting of Kevin Plunkett, the Tiger first baseman who has a shot at the league batting title, went right for Princeton at West Point Saturday. The Tigers lost a 4-0 lead after three innings and lost the ball game in the ninth, 6-5, then folded completely as Army's third best pitcher blanked them, 2-0. Captain Scott McHenry was the victim of that shutout—in the last 19 innings he has worked, he has been the beneficiary of just two runs.

Junior Mike French failed to hold the 4-0 lead with which he entered the last of the third. Doug Lorentz relieved but sophomore Bob Tufts took over for him and became the loser when the cadets filled the bases in the ninth and pushed over the winning run with two away.

Plunkett, who began the week with a .545 average, best in the league, had a 4 for 7 day against Army. His performance this weekend will determine whether he will become the first Princetonian to win the title since Roy Talcott, a pitcher-turned-outfielder, did so in 1943.

Earlier in the week, the Tigers were bombed 12-6, by Temple at Philadelphia, as the nationally-ranked Owls rolled to their 25th victory in 32 games. Princeton yielded seven runs in the first four innings and at one point trailed by 10.

LEAGUE SEASON TO END

For Tiger Ball Team. Back in March, when the baseball season began, it appeared that the weekend of May 9 and 10 might see the Eastern League race decided on Clarke Field.

Princeton, which had chased Harvard down to the wire and into a playoff game before losing to the Crimson last spring, was scheduled to entertain the defending champions in a single game this Friday and Dartmouth in a doubleheader Saturday. The Green, too, has been in and around first place in recent years, and hopes were that the Tigers could write a happy finish to Eddie Donovan's long career by dominating these two teams en route to first place.

It didn't work. For reasons that will remain largely unfathomable, the Orange and Black this year can't play winning ball, despite the presence of capable pitchers and a number of hitters of proven ability. The pitching has more often than not been quite satisfactory, but the hitting has almost invariably vanished when it was needed most.

As a result, the Tigers are currently pegged at .500 in the league standings, and the best that a sweep of the weekend games would do is give them third place. Penn is assured of a tie for the championship; Navy can force a playoff if it can win its final three games—a single with Dartmouth Friday and a Harvard doubleheader Saturday, but the odds are against the midshipmen because both these teams have at least one outstanding pitcher on their rosters.

Softy Throws Shutout. Mark Softy's earned run average in league action dropped to a scintillating .094 (three runs in 29 innings) Friday after he hurled an 8-0 shutout against Cornell at Ithaca. He scattered six hits, struck out four and coasted after his mates pushed across five unearned runs in the fifth.

The victors got a single run in the third when left fielder Neil Chamberlain came home on a hit by Ed Kuchar and then made it 6-0 on one of their biggest innings of the league season as Cornell fielding fell their attack took care of all problems. The final scores were 15-10 over Brown, which has dominated the Orange and Black in recent years, and 18-10 over Harvard.

Brown scored the first goal in the game last Wednesday on Finney Field, but the home team held a 5-4 margin after 15 minutes and left the field at the intermission ahead by 8-5. A 5-3 margin in the third quarter permitted Princeton to concentrate on holding its advantage in the final period, which saw each team score twice.

The Chaires brothers, Billy and Greg, produced five goals and two assists between them. Sophomore Wick Sollers topped all scorers with a pair of goals and three assists.

Sollers was also the top man in the 18-goal attack on Harvard, scoring five times and adding two assists. In his first year on the varsity, he has totalled 55 points in his first 12 games. Midfielder Pete George also was credited with a seven-point performance against Harvard, four of them goals.

The Tigers were held to a 2-all draw after one period but then added eight in the second quarter to take a 10-5 lead at the half. Their play was frequently inconsistent, but the outcome was never in doubt.

The game with Rutgers on Tuesday of this week was expected to be a decisive factor in determining whether the Tigers would earn a berth in the eight-place NCAA Tournament. The regular season will end Saturday at Ithaca, where second-ranked Cornell is a heavy favorite to defend its Ivy title successfully.

FINALS SATURDAY
In Springdale Tournament. Two teams survive in the Governors' Cup Tournament at Springdale Golf Club and will meet Saturday for the trophy in 18 holes of match play.

Stu Willson and Fred Gallagher, with respective handicaps of 14 and 17, will face Bill Paine and Kester Pierson, who play at 6 and 7. The latter two are both former club champions, but will give away a total of 19 strokes, with full handicaps used and low man reducing to zero.

In action last weekend, Paine and Pierson advanced to the semi-finals by default over Roland Smith and Charlie Hurford when Smith was unable to play because of an injury. In Sunday's drenching rain, they then eliminated Jack Mudge and Jim Turgeon, 7 and 6. Mudge and Turgeon defeated Sol Davidson and Dave Savage on Saturday, 1 up.

Willson and Gallagher also won 1 up Saturday over Harry Volweider and Woody Wirsig. On Sunday, they outlasted Dean Chace and Bud Allaire, after the latter had defeated Ed McCall and Irving Ness, 3 and 2.

PHS NINE VS. TRENTON
Lawrence Here Monday. "We're working harder and harder. The important thing is not to give up on ourselves,"

STARTING CATCHER:
Dave Seagers, PHS junior, has taken over the starting catcher's job on the Little Tiger baseball team.

commented Princeton High School baseball coach Jim O'Neill last week after his team had lost two more since winning its only game of the season.

"It's great to have a win but what we need now is a good week. We're due. Different things have improved but we have a situation where we can't seem to get everything going in one game."

It will be a busy week ahead for the Little Tigers as O'Neill continues to move people around, the most recent an attempt to work junior Dave Robinson into the infield. Friday they will be at Trenton High and they were scheduled to oppose Trenton here Wednesday in back-to-back contests with the Tornadoes.

Monday, PHS will entertain Lawrence (3:45) and next Wednesday it will travel to Pennington for a contest with a strong Hopewell Valley team. The latter two are B Division games in the Mercer County League and O'Neill pointed out that although his team's record is 1-8, it is only 1-2 in the B Division. A series of B wins and PHS could more than salvage the present disappointing season.

Its last start against Hamilton Friday is an example of PHS not being as bad as its record indicates. Through five innings the Blue and White battled the Hornets, the leading Division A team in the county with a 10-2 record, even. Each had scored one run.

Then the big inning syndrome struck again. Hamilton scored six runs in the sixth taking advantage of two PHS errors—its only two in the game—and four walks. "We beat ourselves; we never got our bats warm," said O'Neill.

Craig Warnagieris pitched strong and hard for six innings for PHS, "Easily his best showing of the season," said O'Neill. He had never pitched more than three innings before.

PHS got two back in the last inning when Eddie Volz, pinch-hitting, rapped a single, Warnagieris got a hit and third baseman Greg Robinson, with two out, tripled both home.

PHS opened the game with a run in the first after opening walks to Mike Boccanfuso and Paul Soderman were followed by Larry Howell's single.

Steinert Wins, 7-0. Earlier in the week, the big inning and some fine pitching by Jim Leigh enabled Steinert to defeat PHS, 7-0. Only two of the victors' runs were earned.

Leigh and Pete Watson were hooked up in a 3-0 game until the final inning. Then a defensive collapse of no fewer than seven errors allowed the Spartans to push across four runs. Dave Kodner pitched the final out for PHS.

Leigh struck out 10 and limited PHS to four hits. One was a triple by Watson who was later thrown out at the plate when he tried to score on Dave Seagers' grounder. Soderman broke out of a batting slump by connecting for two hits. Boccanfuso had the other.

PLAYING SOUND BALL

Says PDS Baseball Coach. The attempt by the Princeton Day School baseball team to climb above the .500 mark failed last week when it split a pair of one-run decisions.

The Panthers edged Pingry, 3-2, Friday and were blanked 1-0 by Wardlaw earlier. Coach Tom DeVito played the latter under protest and he commented if he is upheld the game will probably be replayed. For the moment, the record is even at 4-4.

Even the Wardlaw imbroglio failed to dampen DeVito's optimism. "We played sound baseball all week. The hitting and defense were there," he said. "We're coming. He said the team was 'doing a lot of little nice things such as Scott Ware throwing out two men trying to steal and picking one off first base, or the infield coming up with its tenth double play in eight games. Glenn Russo won the Pingry game in relief of Mark Blaxill who pitched 5 1-3 innings. The Panthers pushed across the winning run in the sixth when Blaxill singled, advanced on a fielder's choice and, when Chris Szuter lined a shot to right, Blaxill scored on a fine hook slide to the plate. "It was a super play on Blaxill's part," recalled DeVito who said that the throw was a one-hopper to the plate "right on target."

PDS had scored a single run in the first without a hit and again in the fifth on a walk to John Hickling, who stole second and come home on a Frank Konstantyowicz single. Pingry outthit PHS, 8-7.

Russo went all the way in the loss to Wardlaw, giving up five hits. The game's only run came in the fifth on a single, sacrifice and slow grounder to second that went through for a hit. PDS stranded nine.

DeVito played under protest after the first inning when PDS, he maintains, should have scored a run. Following a force of a PDS runner at third, the Wardlaw third sacker then threw wildly past first. DeVito insisted there were two plays involved, the force at third then the wild throw. Since Konstantyowicz, who had been on first, was already past second before the third baseman released his throw, he should have been allowed two bases: third and home.

The umpire, DeVito said, ruled that it was one continuous play and that Konstantyowicz had not reached second before the throw. He allowed Konstantyowicz to advance only as far as third. PDS will play host to Newark Academy Friday at 3:30 and Lawrenceville School Monday at 4. It was scheduled to oppose George School this Wednesday.

SOFTBALL STARTS

Business League Under Way. The newly-expanded Princeton Business Softball League, now in its 5th season began play last week with almost every game being played.

In the American Division,

McLean Sets Vault Mark

Mark McLean, who will become Princeton High School's all-time point leader in track, set a new Mercer County pole vault record Saturday in the Bernards Invitational Meet held in Bernardsville.

McLean's winning vault of 13-9½ erased a number of records. It bettered the existing meet record; the Princeton High School mark of 13-1 set in 1967 and the old Mercer County record of 13-9 set in 1971. His vault was the top individual performance in that event in the Delaware Valley this season.

The all-time record is 14-4 set by Glenn Willard of Pennsbury in 1972.

perennially strong McGraw-Hill trounced Mathematica, 36-4. Barry Brummel and Bobby Wood homered for McGraw, while Paul Ressler hit a four-bagger for the losers. In a game which saw Cities Service Research playing a man down for the entire time, American Cyanamid got an unexpected win, 11-10, pulling the game out in the last of the sixth. Nelse Nichols hit 3-4 for Cities, and Ray Leonard went 4-4 with a home run. Winning pitcher was Buddy McCrie.

United Jersey Banks gained strength in its second year of competition by beating RCA (A), 9-8. Dick Morbee was the key man with a homer and 4 RBS'is. John Muir had a perfect 3-3, and Lou Sepanski added another round trip for UJB. Norelco overpowered Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Labs, 10-5, on the strength of Vernon Washington's grand slam. E.R. Squibb will play its first game in this league this week.

In the National Division, Educational Testing Service began its campaign for another championship by pounding Ingersoll Rand Research, 22-5, in a game shortened by darkness and an injury which resulted in a 40-minute delay waiting for the ambulance. Nineteen hits were racked up by ETS, Jerry Murphy having a perfect 3-3 night, Bill Degler going 4-5, and Rich Lamato hitting 3-4. Winning pitcher was Bones Gilbert.

Firmenich blasted RCA (B), 23-0, with Bob Elkins pitching the shutout, and Bob Pagano hitting 5-6 with a grand slam. Bill Faulkner contributed another grand slam on a 4-6 night, while his brother, Ray, went 5-6. Bill Swanhart, Jr. also hit a home run for the winners.

Forrestal Research Center swamped E.R.C., 10-1, in their opener, behind the strong pitching of Jack Barto. First National Bank's opener against Princeton Day School was postponed until this week, and Institute for Defense Analysis will open its season against Ingersoll Rand.

TWO MORE SHUT OUTS

For Streaking PHS Netmen. Two more area high schools fell, 5-0, last week before the Princeton High School tennis team which won its seventh straight following an opening loss.

Hopewell Valley managed to win only a total of four games Friday. Ewing fared a little better earlier and only a 4-1 loss in an unscheduled contest with the Princeton University girls tennis team kept the boys humble.

Andre Eichenberger, Dan and Alan Aronovic won singles matches against the Bulldogs of Hopewell Valley, while Malcolm Benjamin and Steve Ebersole and Dan Amarel and Dan Schulman won doubles matches.

The same players triumphed against Ewing, the lone exception being in the number two doubles, where David Bowen teamed with Schulman. In the closest match, Alan Aronovic won, 7-5, 7-5 in the number three doubles. Eichenberger, who has regained the number 1 seeding from Dan Aronovic, won, 6-2, 6-0. Dan Aronovic swept through his match, 6-0, 6-0.

The match with the University girl's team on the University Courts was arranged between Dan Aronovic and Tiger coach Carla Geiser. Asked if the boys were surprised about the outcome, PHS coach Bill Humes replied: "I don't know if they were, but I wasn't."

The lone winner for PHS was Dan Aronovic who defeated Linda Rice in the number one singles. "The kids got a lot out of it and it was a lot of fun," said Humes.

One of Princeton High's opponents next week will be Metuchen, here Tuesday for a 3:45 match. Metuchen upset PHS in its opener last year and Humes reported that his team "was looking forward to evening things up."

PDS SPLITS PAIR

In Lacrosse. Princeton Day School split its two games in lacrosse last week, losing to Pingry, 11-6, on Friday, and routing Montclair Academy, 20-2. Its record is 6-2.

Coach Chuck Simpson's team will play Rutgers Prep at home Friday at 3:45 and Hun School on Wednesday at 3:30. Rutgers Prep with its all-state goalie Alex Chanin kept PDS out of the state competition last year, "so I don't think we have to be psyched up for that one," said Simpson. "Our kids are sky high."

Against Pingry, PDS scored first on a Dave O'Conner goal but then Pingry struck for the rest six. "I can't understand it," said Simpson later. "We started off okay. We scored the first goal... then we weren't in the ball game. We came back in the second quarter (the half ended 8-5) and we played them fairly even in the second half." He did give Pingry its due by saying it engineered "some incredible shooting" during its six-goals spree.

Jack Bonini, Billy Erdman, Steve Judge and Dich Gordon also scored for PDS.

At one point in the Montclair route, PDS scored three goals in 40 seconds and four in 70 seconds. "We took advantage of every opportunity," said Simpson, who added that the winless home team "obviously didn't have anything."

Taking part in the scoring feast were Erdman, Gordon and O'Conner, all of whom had three goals each. Judge and Rob Olson added two goals apiece and even PDS goalie Rick Olson scored a goal when Simpson put him in as a middy.

RIDERS TO COMPETE

In Annual Dressage Event. The Princeton Riding Center, Meadow Mouse Farm, Princeton will present its 15th annual dressage show on Saturday and Sunday, May 17 and 18, from 9-4:30. Admission is $1.00 and is good for both days.

This show always brings out myriads of old friends, new friends, camera buffs, riders, horseowners, non-riders and above all kids! The P.R.C. Annual has a reputation for being a well-organized event staffed by knowledgeable people. Delicious food will be on hand at all times, and a hospitality committee will help anyone with all questions and problems.

Miss Lee Kraft, a graduate of Morven Park Equestrian Institute and current manager of Princeton Riding Center, is Show chairman this year, and is dedicating the show to Louise Strunsky. Prior to her death last year Mrs. Strunsky, who lived in Kingston, was a well known devotee of Princeton High School dressage. She was also a lacrosse coach Bill Cirullo, professional pianist and had performed at McCarter Theatre. A long time Princeton area resident, she was active in many cultural and civic projects. She had always wanted to ride, but the pressures of her life afforded her little chance until her middle years.

Under the tutelage of Major Deszo Szilagyi she became a good rider and she learned the value and beauty of dressage. Mrs. Strunsky and Major Szilagyi organized the first dressage show in 1960. She raised money, cajoled the volunteers, invited equestrians from far and near and succeeded in putting together an attractive, worthwhile event for the horse world and a fine spectator event for the Princeton area as well.

Miss Elizabeth Lewis, well known dressage competitor, will be on the judging team for the first time. Although her home is Marietta, Ga., she has many friends in Princeton which she has visited often.

Holder of countless ribbons and trophies, she was a member of the United States Equestrian Team and rode in the World Championships in 1974. She will be in contention for the 1976 Olympic team. This year she appeared in the Madison Square Garden Horse Show and performed a difficult and beautiful dressage pas de deux with John Winnett.

Major Deszo Szilagyi who makes his home in Hopewell will also be judging. The "Major," as he is called by his many friends and students, has earned the respect and affection of everyone who knows him. He also enjoys a national reputation as an author, teacher, performer and judge of dressage riding.

HUN JOLTED TWICE

Has Key Game With Pennington. The Hun School baseball express was temporarily derailed last week by a batting slump which cost Hun a 2-1, 11 inning loss to Newark Academy Saturday and a 10-1 shellacking at the hands of Admiral Farragut.

This Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 Hun (7-4) was scheduled to entertain Pennington. Both teams are undefeated in the northern division of the Penn Jersey League. "That's the big one, I just hope our bats come out in time," said Hun coach Bill McQuade.

Friday Hun will be at George School in Newtown, Pa., at West Windsor on Monday and Mitchell on Wednesday.

Hun's only run against Newark Academy came in the first when Tom Dunn doubled home Ernie Barbiero who had singled. The home team tied it in the fourth and won it in the eleventh when Jeff Kaplan singled with the bases loaded.

Barbiero (5-3) Hun's workhorse on the mound, pitched 10 innings and struck out eight. He spaced out 10 Newark hits. Hun had only three the entire game. "If you don't hit you don't deserve to win," said McQuade. "Our bats have gone dry."

Hun managed only five hits off Admiral Faragut (3-3) "a team we usually take out frustrations on," said McQuade. This time it was the other way around. The future Admirals scored in every inning but two, taking advantage of some poor Hun play in the field. Tom Sumners took the loss.

Dunn singled home Lonnie Cathel who had doubled for Hun's only run in the third.

Still earlier, Barbiero drove in three runs including the winning run with two down as Hun edged Academy of New Church, 4-3. Barbiero also got credit for the win.

HOW MUCH MORE?

Asks PHS Stickmen. The present season has turned into an exercise in pain for Princeton High School lacrosse coach Bill Cirullo, who suffered again as he watched his team lose a 7-6 decision Saturday to favored Hunterdon Central. PHS led at the half, 3-1.

It was the third one-goal loss for the Little Tigers who have a 2-6 record and no hope of receiving --as they did last year --an invitation to compete in the NJStAA post-season tournament.

PHS will next oppose Hanover Park, a team which defeated the Blue and White twice last year, including a first round triumph in the NJStAA event. "We certainly hope to atone for last year," said Cirullo who added that Hanover Park has lost through graduation and is not as strong this year. The game, the first of two remaining home games, will be played at 2 Saturday at the PHS football field.

The Little Tigers will be at Summit on Wednesday.

Cirullo reported that he thought his team played a "real decent ball game" against Hunterdon, "but we lost it on mistakes. PHS was called for four slashes, a couple of holds... "it all adds up," said Cirullo, who stated Hunterdon scored four of its seven goals when PHS had a man in the Penalty box.

The mistakes at the end he attributed to fatigue. "Our kids are in condition but when you have to run 14 or 15 against 30 to 35 every week as we do it takes a toll."

Mace Morhman, Princeton's leading scorer, scored twice for PHS. Adding single goals were Morgan Morhman, Alex Wert, John Leshner and Stuart Brown.

The close scores, said Cirullo, against Livingston, Lawrence and Hunterdon "at least showed we can play respectable ball, that we do have good stickwork -- contrary to what we did against Princeton Day School. The kids want to play good ball and I think we'll win some more."

Cirullo pointed out that had PHS won those three one-goal losses, PHS would have a 5-3 record. "It's a matter of inches," he said.
